Trade Associations Preventing Competition Will be Special Target in Probe

Foodstuffs Are Too High, Attorney General Says—Alleges More Profiteering

Washington—A nationwide investigation of both wholesale and retail prices of foodstuffs of all kinds, shoes, clothing and fuel was ordered Thursday by Attorney General Daugherty. Daugherty stated that this is the beginning of a concerted effort to bring down retail prices.

William J. Burns, head of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice, personally will direct the investigation. Daugherty contends that the retail prices, particularly as they relate to meat and general foodstuffs, are out of proportion to the wholesale prices. This investigation will reach back to the farm and other sources of production of raw materials.

The attorney general also is particularly interested in breaking up trade associations, organized for the purpose of crushing competition which results in profiteering.

Retailers, particularly among grocers, are responsible for the wide difference between the wholesale and retail price of necessities. Daugherty said. Many retail grocers have banded together in associations for the purpose of profiteering. Daugherty added. "Retail prices are too high," said Daugherty. "They are out of line with the prices paid for raw materials and the prices paid the wholesalers."

TO DECIDE IF DRY AGENTS CAN BREAK LOCKS ON SALOONS

State Contends Law Permits Search and Seizure in Saloons Without Warrants

Madison—The question of whether a prohibition enforcement agent can force a lock in a licensed soft drink parlor without a search warrant will be taken to the Wisconsin supreme court.

Formal action of Attorney General William Morgan, instructing Assistant Attorney General Joseph Messerschmidt to take an appeal from the decision of Judge Gehrz of Milwaukee, followed a conference between Attorney General Morgan and State Prohibition Commissioner W. Stanley Smith Thursday.

Judge Gehrz held that prohibition agents were not privileged to open a locked drawer of the saloon of the plaintiff in the case of Bloodgood vs. Silber for the purpose of taking therefrom a bottle of whisky after the plaintiff had refused to open it on demand.

The state contends that the permits obtained under the Severson law gives the permission of the taker of the permit to search and seizure without warrant.

THREE KILLED ON FARM IN LIGHT PLANT BLAST

St. Peter, Minn.—Henry A. Nitzke, his wife and 14 year old son were killed when the carbide lighting plant in their farm home three miles from Nicolet exploded Wednesday night. The blast wrecked the home. Two daughters, Olga, 18, and Lucella, 15, escaped serious injury.

The mother and son died almost instantly and the father died a few hours after the explosion. The cause could not be learned.

BELIEVE FISHERMAN DROWNED THROUGH ICE

Sturgeon Bay—With the recovery of the body of Martin Tollefson, 46, here Wednesday, the first drowning accident of the season was brought to light. It is believed Tollefson broke through the ice while fishing Tuesday. This was not known until Wednesday morning when his wife notified the authorities that he was missing.

Only Few Days Left To Be A Good Fellow

Dormie Must Be Tried Over For Cat Deaths

By United Press Leased Wire
San Francisco—Dormie vaggled his tail happily in his own backyard Thursday even though he faced another trial on charge of murdering Sunbeam and thirteen other cats.

Dormie, an sirolo dog, was released on bail when the jury, trying him for the murders, disagreed. The vote was reported 11 to 1 for acquittal.

Dormie barked his thanks to the eleven who saved him from being put to death in the city gas house.

Present Fund Permits Only a Little More Than $5 for Each of the Needy Families in Appleton—Money Must Be in By Saturday.

How would you like to outfit a family of eleven boys and girls, ranging in age from two to thirteen years, providing them with underclothing, stockings, shoes, shirts and dresses, with about $5.50 as your disbursement? Impossible, you say. Well, that is what the five cooperating charities which will expend the Good Fellows fund are expected to do. They will have only a little more than $5 to spend on each family unless there is a sudden increase in the number of contributions to the Good Fellows fund.

The first distribution was made to the charities on Thursday. The money was apportioned to each organization in proportion to the number of families it will care for. The apportionments from a total of $660 was as follows: German Ladies Aid society, $146.07; Salvation Army, $151.48; Jewish Ladies Aid society, $32.46; Ladies Auxiliary of the Catholic Order of Foresters, $248.86; City Relief society, $81.15.

Since that distribution was made about $200 has been added to the fund. The largest single contribution came from the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks who voted $100 to the fund at their meeting Wednesday evening. About $880 now is available for the poor of the city.

MANY NEED LIFT

While this sum will be of great assistance in providing some sort of comfort for the unfortunate families of the city, it is only a little more than half of what is needed. With hundreds of persons out of work the need for a "lift" this winter is greater than it ever has been before. These stricken families are entirely unable to do anything for themselves and they must sit mutely by while their more fortunate neighbors enjoy the happiness which is as much the birthright of the poor as the wealthy.

All contributions must be in by Saturday noon so that a final distribution can be made in the afternoon. The five charities are making their purchases now but want to have all their bills paid before Christmas.

This gives you only one more day in which to earn the right to be called a Good Fellow. If you lose this opportunity to do something for the "least" of Appleton's citizens you are throwing away the chance to enjoy that feeling of satisfaction you should have on Christmas day.

MRS. SAILSTAD TO WED; MUST PROVE SHE IS REAL WIDOW

Insurance Company Contends Husband Supposed to Have Died in Fire is Alive

By United Press Leased Wire
Eau Claire—Announcement made here late Wednesday of the coming nuptials of Mrs. Leona Sailstad, widow of the supposed late Edward J. Sailstad, president of the now Multitone Manufacturing company of this city, who is supposed to have burned to death in a fire that destroyed the Polak cottage at Lake Nebagamon, Wis., on the night of Aug. 27, 1920, was the subject Thursday of widespread comment as to whether Mrs. Sailstad is legally a widow.

The insurance companies carrying some $77,000 life insurance on Sailstad insist that he is alive, that he set the fire at Lake Nebagamon after planting human bones in the cottage to give the impression he had burned to death, and then eloped with his private secretary, Miss Dorothy Anderson of Chicago, and so far have refused to pay a cent of the insurance. They also claim to have evidence substantiating their claim.

Although she filed the preliminary claim to the insurance company shortly after her husband's supposed death, Mrs. Sailstad has not yet taken any legal steps to force payment. She has insisted from the first that she was convinced Sailstad was dead and Wednesday, in filing her application for a license to wed Ross T. Richardson of this city, she made affidavit that she was a widow, that her husband died Aug. 27, 1920 in a fire at Lake Nebagamon.

The Rev. L. A. Parr, pastor of the First Congregational church, who has been asked to officiate at the wedding, was Thursday afternoon looking up the records to satisfy himself as to whether Mrs. Sailstad was legally a widow.

THOUGHT TRUNK MURDERER FOUND

By United Press Leased Wire
Chobasin, Mich.—The latest clue to solution of the LeRoy trunk murder mystery failed Thursday when it was proved that finger prints of Eugene LeRoy and J. R. Wood, held here, were not similar.

LeRoy has been sought all over the world as the man who brutally murdered a young girl, mutilated her body and shipped it from Detroit to New York in a trunk which remained in storage for a month before the gruesome discovery was made.

Police said that "J. R. Wood" was one of the aliases used by LeRoy.

IRISH RIOTERS LOOT SHOPS SEEKING FOOD

Belfast—Food riots broke out in Belfast early Thursday. Dozens of shops were raided by the rioters who stole huge stocks of provisions.

McAfee's butcher shop was entered and three carcasses of beef and many fowls were carried off. The raiders attempted to set fire to another place.

Illness With Pneumonia Brings Sudden End—Wielded Fiery Editorial Pen

By United Press Leased Wire
Jacksonville, Fla.—Colonel Henry Watterson, an outstanding figure in American journalism for the last half century, died Thursday.

An illness of less than 24 hours ended the death of the great Louisville editor in a hotel here at 650 a. m.

Watterson, one of the most brilliant editorial writers in the history of the country, suddenly developed an acute case of bronchial pneumonia Wednesday.

Mrs. Watterson was prostrated with grief over the sudden death of her husband and said it would be impossible for her to leave Florida this winter.

The body of Col. Watterson will be placed in a vault there until next April when it will be taken to Cave Hill cemetery, Louisville, for burial.

WAS FAILING

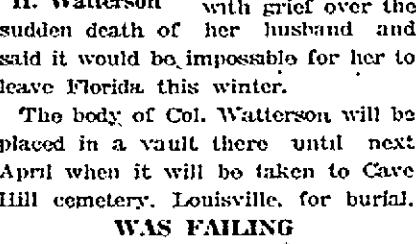

For some months the aged editor's heart had appeared to his physicians to be weakening, although he seemed to be in the best of spirits. The weakened heart and Watterson's age of 81 years made it impossible for him to withstand the attack and his physicians said heart disease was the direct cause of death.

Col. Watterson was conscious until about a half hour before his death. Then he quietly summoned his wife and told her he believed the end was near. Shortly afterward he lapsed into unconsciousness.

At the colonel's bedside when death came, were the wife, his son, Henry Watterson, Jr., and a daughter, Mrs. William A. Miller.

On Tuesday "Marse Henry" was in excellent spirits and seemed to be enjoying good health. He and his family had made elaborate preparations for Christmas festivities.

Henry Watterson was the "grand old man of American journalism." He would have been 82 years old next Feb. 16.

H. Watterson

"He was a pioneer in the newspaper field of the south middle west and by the bitter invective styles of his editorials swayed the entire United States. It was he who first created the phrase:

"To hell with the Hapsburgs and the Hohenzollerns," as the United States hovered on the brink of war.

For the last few years he has taken no active part in journalism. He retired when the Louisville Courier-Journal ownership passed from his hands to Robert Worth Bingham, his present owner.

After his retirement from active editorial writing he composed the memoirs of his life in two brilliant volumes called "Looking Backward."

In this series he told the entire story of his life. He was extremely proud of the fact that he was born in Washington "the center of diplomacy."

His father was a congressman from Tennessee and he early became identified in national life.

KNEW ADAMS

John Quincy Adams used to walk along the streets of Washington with his arm on Watterson's shoulder while the boy read to him. He sat on the knee of Andrew Jackson. He was an amateur page in congress and was at John Quincy Adams's side when he fell.

Watterson began his newspaper career as a reporter on the Washington States. Then came the civil war. The fiery old warrior of the pen—then a youth in his teens—enlisted and served as an aide de camp to Generals Forrest and Polk.

After the war he began a "traveling newspaper," the Chattanooga Rebel, a paper printed in a wagon. Later he went to Louisville, Ky., where he stayed for half a century to make newspaper history.

In 1858 he merged the Journal, the Democrat of W. N. Haldeman and the Courier into "the Courier-Journal." Then he took up the editorial banner to strike for a solidified north and south. With brilliant words that struck at the heart of every subject he mentioned, he drew the applause of the nation and his editorials were represented in journals throughout the country.

ANGRY AT FLAGMAN SO THEY SHOT HIM

Taxicab Driver Gives Minneapolis Authorities Clew to Murder in Shack

By United Press Leased Wire
Minneapolis—Police Thursday held one man and two women in connection with the mysterious murder of Lawrence Hogan, aged railroad watchman in his shack early Wednesday. They seek another man.

William Boreth, a taxicab driver, told police of having driven two men and two women to St. Paul early Tuesday evening. He returned with them about 1.30 a. m. As they crossed the tracks at Hogan's crossing, the guard gates barely missed the machine. A block up the street the men ordered the taxi driver to let them out and they would go back and "settle with the watchman."

Boreth drove the girls around the block and returned to pick up the men. They did not mention shooting, nor did Boreth hear any shots.

Two armed George Gibbs and recovered a .32 calibre revolver, the same size bullet that killed the watchman. Gibbs is said to have admitted firing two shots himself. He said four shots were fired. There were two bullet holes in Hogan's head.

This is the fourth time Ford has been refused permission to cut rates on his road.

Yule Spirit Won't Allow Booze Flood

By United Press Leased Wire
Madison—There will be no letup on the anti-booze campaign during the Christmas period, W. Stanley Smith, state prohibition enforcement officer, assured the United Press Thursday.

The state prohibition forces have continued their offensive over Wisconsin with unabated vim in the face of, or perhaps because of, the cold weather.

Wednesday's campaigns netted the following, Mr. Smith said: One still, 40 gallons of liquor, two saloons, and two alleged violators of the Severson act, in the town of Cottage Grove, Chilton and Stevens Point.

HAD TO PLEASE BIG POWERS IN WORDING PACT

Literal Meaning of "Insular Dominions" Would Make U. S. Defend Japan

By David Lawrence
Copyright, 1921 by Tost Pub. Co.

Washington—Government is not only a very human institution but an amonose organization, and sometimes one branch of it does something which the other knows nothing about.

That's the explanation for the opinion which President Harding innocently voiced at his meeting with the newspaper correspondents concerning the meaning of the four-power pact, an opinion which was at once sent broadcast as a conflict of view and contradiction of ideas between Secretary Hughes and the president.

In fairness to all sides, the facts of the incident ought to be stated. Mr. Harding submits twice a week to interrogation by the newspaper correspondents. They offer their questions in writing and Mr. Harding can answer or not as he pleases. One inquiry related to the debate which has been going on in the senate as to the true meaning of promising of the new four power treaty which reads "With a view to the preservation of the general peace and the maintenance of their rights in relation to their insular possessions and insular dominions in the region of the Pacific ocean." The query was whether the word "insular dominions" included the homeland of Japan. Senator Reed and contended that it did, and that America was in effect guaranteeing the territorial integrity of Japan when in fact the United States had refused to guarantee anybody else's territorial integrity under article ten of the League of Nations covenant.

HARDING'S VIEW

The president's view of the question carefully stated his own personal impression. He said at the outset that he had not consulted the members of the American delegation about it—for indeed he has left to them the task of working out such problems as these. He did know, however, that it was not the intention of the United States to guarantee the territorial integrity of Japan and his own superficial reading of the treaty led him to conclude that no such meaning was intended inasmuch as Japan herself was a signatory to the treaty, and that obviously it was intended only to safeguard external rights of Japan in the Pacific and not her own domestic State was made a guarantee as to continental America.

The American delegation contends that the United States could decide to remain neutral and keep hands off without violating the spirit or the letter of article two. In the desire to please Australia and New Zealand and also not to raise an issue which might lead to a quarrel with the whole conference, the American delegation agreed to the French and British interpretation that "insular dominions" included the mainland of Japan but in doing so the United States probably felt that it was not compelled to use physical force any more in that regard than in relation to any other islands of the Pacific.

BETTER A TREATY THAN WAR'S DEAD, IS VIEW OF IRISH

Gen. Mulcahy-Voices Objections but Says Only Alternative is to Accept Peace

By United Press Leased Wire
Dublin—Ireland does not like the British treaty and she does not want it—but she can do nothing but accept it, General Richard Mulcahy, leader of the Irish republican army, leader of the Irish republicans, said Thursday.

Summing up the general attitude of the majority of the Irish people he said:

"We don't like the pact; we don't want a king; we don't want a crown representative; we don't want enemy forces occupying our harbors and we don't want to partition Ireland—but what alternative is possible?"

He pointed out that Sinn Fein military force was inadequate except to make a resistance of many years, "but it could not win the war. That's the outstanding point. Are we going to take an alternative that will save our country with dead?"

A spirit of gloom hovered over the daily Eireann Thursday as the restless members gathered for the eighth day of debate on the Anglo-Irish treaty.

Leaders of the opposing factions were determined to force a vote on the treaty this late Thursday night or early Friday so a definite decision may be reached before the Christmas adjournment.

BULLET RULE TO BE ENDED IN ARDMORE

Triple Murder of Bootleggers Leads to Drastic Moves by Oklahoma Officials

By United Press Leased Wire
Ardmore, Okla.—The "reign of the shot" which residents claimed exists in Ardmore was investigated by Attorney General S. P. Freeland. Freeland arrived here to take charge of a probe into complaints made by Ardmore citizens that county authorities were lax in law enforcement and that outlaws were rampant.

An investigation will also be made into the triple murder of William Okla. and also wherein Joe Carroll, an alleged bootlegger and two alleged members of a masked band were the victims.

The preliminary trial of the Rev. Leon Julius, Baptist minister of Wilson and J. A. Gilliam, charged with murder in connection with the Wilson killings was scheduled to open in justice court here Thursday afternoon. Eleven other men also charged with the murder will waive preliminary examination.

Lindenfeld's Lies Keep Officials Guessing In Tracing Wall-St. Gang

By United Press Leased Wire
Warsaw, Poland—Two women and four men plotted the Wall street bomb explosion, Sylvester Cosgrove, American department of justice agent, declared here Thursday.

Names of the plotters who are now being sought by police were obtained, Cosgrove said, from Wolf Lindenfeld, now being held in jail here until his stories can be verified.

Local authorities, however, are wary of Lindenfeld's story which implicates six radicals and maintains his own innocence.

A personal investigation of Lindenfeld's past activities and reputation revealed the fact that he is known as a "wind runner." He admits he has had several times to police and he changes his story every day. A personal friend of his said every one around his home called him "windy Bill" because he bragged about himself so much.

FAMILY IS SAD

Lindenfeld's younger brother and his father were heartbroken. They were at first reticent to talk of Lindenfeld, believing the interviewer was a spy. They were extremely frightened, but finally told the details of Lindenfeld's life.

William was surprised that Cosgrove—a member of the labor party, Lindenfeld believed—had such a good standing at the American embassy but he did not become suspicious immediately.

"William and I went on a short trip," the younger brother said. "When we returned my sister accompanied us to the Hotel Bristol where we went to see Cosgrove. My sister waited in the lobby while we went to Cosgrove's room."

"Later Cosgrove came down to the lobby with us, when William asked him to meet his sister."

"COSGROVE IS ARRESTED

"Cosgrove and his sister were just shaking hands when Paul Altendorf (a Burns detective) and a Polish policeman walked up and seized William."

"William shrieked when Altendorf placed his hand on William's shoulder. "Mr. Cosgrove," my brother cried. "Cosgrove then whirled upon William with his fist and struck him in the face."

Lindenfeld never spoke of political affairs, the brother said, "but he thought him only a newspaper reporter and believed him incapable of implication in the bomb plot."

American Delegates Argue Poison Gas More Humane Than High Explosives

DEMAND FRANCE BACK DOWN

Pressure on Briand is Expected to Adjust French Auxiliary Craft Demands

Washington—Revision of international rules of warfare as they apply to use of submarines was provided in a resolution adopted by a subcommittee of the arms conference naval committee, it became known Thursday.

It was also revealed that America had opposed abolition of poison gas, contending that its use was humane, or more so than the use of high explosive shells.

Revision of submarine rules cannot be accomplished immediately, it was said, because so important a topic, affecting other than the five great powers of the armament conference, must be considered and acted upon by other nations.

Meanwhile, hopes for a speedy settlement of the naval limitation question by France agreeing to back down to some extent from her demand for a disproportionate amount of light cruisers, submarines and auxiliary craft was brightened, when it learned the French delegation had received another cablegram from Premier Briand.

The conference tackled Thursday the last barriers to complete agreement on naval limitation.

The American group had let it be known that it regarded the original Hughes submarine allotment as susceptible to alterations—downward. But there was every indication that the committee would give short shrift to any exaggerated demands by France for auxiliaries out of all proportion to those assigned the big naval powers.

Premier Briand is more and more finding himself in a sort of "between the devil and the deep sea position." Secretary Hughes is prodding him apparently, via Ambassador Harvey B. Lyden, to accept the "five great powers" spirit of "scientific" while Lloyd George, who has evinced a hostility to the French naval ambitions, gives him a nudge every time a new Hughes demand reaches him.

Away from home and without the support of his ambitious naval advisers, Briand seems to be gradually lacking down completely.

Britain's plan for total abolition of submarine warfare due for rejection whether the submarine question was to be taken up on its merits with regard to submarine relation to capital ship tonnage.

FONDY RUM RING FURNISHES BAIL

By United Press Leased Wire
Fond du Lac—Dr. O. P. Schenck, Prince Albert, Sask., saloonkeeper of the same place, Ed Stubbs, and R. H. Alexander, saloonkeepers of Montello; O. W. Hughes, Chippewa Falls; Matthew Baule, Fond du Lac, were released on $2,500 bail each in municipal court, and hearing in connection with the liquor theft from the DuFrane warehouse was set for Dec. 27. The status of the other men, connected with the alleged booze ring is as follows:

Walter Poplawski, Wisconsin Rapids bound over to circuit court, released on $1,000 bail. It is said he will plead guilty. Stanley and Joe Poplawski, are now in Waupun serving sentence for burglary of the Eau Claire Casino.

Anton Hauser, New Holstein, alleged driver of the booze truck, is in jail in default of $2,500 bail. Frank Gratzke, is in county jail waiting it is said, to enter a plea of guilty to a charge of burglarizing the Bodley warehouse of a barrel of molasses and four sacks of corn.

FIVE ARE INJURED IN MILWAUKEE AUTO CRASH

By United Press Leased Wire
Milwaukee—One man was seriously hurt and four others slightly injured when an automobile collided with a motor truck here Wednesday night.

C. W. Taylor, 66, occupant of the touring car was thrown from the car by impact and suffered serious injuries. Physicians say he may lose the sight of his right eye.

CHRISTMAS CUT IN RAIL RATES SENDS THROUGHS HOMEWARD

Chicago—America will spend Christmas at home.

Railroads of the country are handling the greatest homeward crowds in history.

Holiday rates went into effect for the first time in years.

Officials reported all offices jammed with folks going home for short visits around the family Christmas tree.

"Stimulation in holiday passenger business is the greatest we've had," declared C. A. Cairns, passenger traffic manager of the Chicago & Northwestern.

Agents of other transcontinental lines reported similar increases.

G. O. P. FORMING ANTI-TREATY BLOC

Washington—An "anti treaty bloc" was being formed Thursday among Republican senators.

At the same time telegrams by the hundreds were coming to senators demanding that they oppose any pact that calls for American guarantees to Japan, for preservation of territorial integrity, or anything else.

The Republican "anti-treaty bloc" was crowing up around the anti-Japanese sentiment of the Pacific coast.

City, State and Federal Officials Named in Warrants for Street Killing

By United Press Leased Wire
Austin, Tex.—Peder Clayton, shot to death near the hall of a masked order, was killed by peace officers firing in self defense while trying to capture him, police claimed here Thursday.

Police made this version of the killing public Thursday when murder charges were filed by a police sergeant against four city, state and federal officials. Previously the complainants had filed charges against twenty Austin citizens.

The complaints filed by Police Sergeant Nitschke in justice court were against W. E. Mayberry, custodian of Camp Mabry and member of the state ranger force; E. L. Young, chief of city detectives; J. L. McNeill, police patrolman, and Bassett Miles, federal prohibition officer.

Nitschke also filed complaints charging assault with intent to kill against "Chicken" Childress and Barney Blount, alleged to have been in the car with Clayton at the time he was killed.

Police were fixed at $1,000 and examining trial set for Jan. 5.

All of the defendants have been arrested except Miles, who is out of the city on official business.

Nitschke, who said he had been conducting the investigation of the murder, declared that Childress and Blount had caused several disturbances early on the night of the murder.

FIND BOY'S BODY CONCEALED IN TUB

Companion is Alleged to Have Murdered Youth in Basement of Father's Shop

New York—A murder rivaling the Ruth Cruger case has been brought to light Thursday with discovery of the body of Gilbert Rein, aged 5, in a tub in the cellar of his father's tailorshop on the east side.

The child's skull has been crushed with blows from a club. Police are searching for a dark, tall youth with whom Max Rein, the father, says his little boy was playing just before he was killed. The slayer is believed to have placed the child in the tub and then struck him with the club, afterward placing the lid on the tub and calmly walking out right past his victim's father.

COUNCIL VOTES $2,000 TO KEEP ARTILLERY BAND

Ten Concerts Will be Given
Next Summer—Sales Pavilion is Approved

Appleton will have the services of its artillery band for the coming year. It was decided by the city council at its meeting Wednesday evening on the recommendation of Ald. Wood, member of the investigating committee appointed by Mayor J. A. Hawes at the last session of the council. The council agreed to pay the band organization $2,000 for ten concerts to be played in the city parks during the coming summer.

The proposed stock sales pavilion advanced another step toward realization when Mayor Hawes addressed the council members in favor of the project, saying that such a building would be a great benefit to the city and that he would appoint a committee at the next council meeting to work with committees of farmers and the chamber of commerce in the interest of the community building.

The matter of changing names of streets and the numbering of houses came up at the meeting but was referred to the street committee.

Alderman Beske asked the opinion of the council regarding hearing of the comfort station in the city park during the winter. This was referred to the street committee. Mayor Hawes, Alderman Laabs and Alderman Lappen spoke on maintenance of ice rinks in the city. The mayor suggested that a man be hired to work evenings at the Jones park rink to preserve order.

Laabs suggested that the mayor appoint committees to begin arrangements for the convention of the Wisconsin League of Municipalities to be held here next June. Committees will be appointed at the next meeting. The mayor appointed the street committee to open roads into the territories of the city and to cooperate with the cemetery association in doing this work.

Peter Rademacher was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Supervisor Nick Schaefer upon the recommendation of Alderman Fosse. Fosse also asked the mayor to appoint a committee to confer with the county highway committee about keeping highways, which lead into the city, open for traffic. The mayor appointed the street committee to look after this work.

YOUNGSTERS TRY HAND AT JUDGING

Winnebago-co. High Schools
Send Pupils to Outagamie-co. Farms

A district stock judging contest was conducted in Outagamie-co. Tuesday by the stock judging teams of Neenah, Oshkosh and Omro high schools. Each team was composed of three members and four classes of live stock were judged.

Four Holsteins were judged on the farm of W. H. Steffensen, Calumet; four Guernseys on the farm of Albert Schmidt, town of Greenville; four Duroc-Jerseys hogs on the farm of O. P. Cuff, Hortonville; and four draft horses at the sales barn of Joseph Ullman.

The contestants were impressed with the quality of Holsteins at the Steffensen farm; with the typical Guernseys at Schmidt farm; and with the excellent individual hogs on the Cuff farm.

The three teams are contesting to determine which will be entitled to go to Madison to take part in the state contest of twenty teams to be held Friday, March 10.

P. O. Nyhus, farm agent of the First National bank, had charge of the judging of the Holsteins, Guernseys and draft horses, and O. P. Cuff was in charge of the judging of the Duroc-Jersey hogs. Each class was accompanied by its instructor.

TAKE FOUR DEATH TRAPS FROM ROAD

Winnebago County Appropriates $75,000 to Make Crooked Road Straight

Four death traps which have made every autist take his life in his hands while driving between Oshkosh and Ripon are to be removed through an appropriation of $75,000 by Winnebago county, and the order of the county road and bridge committee to relocate a portion of highway No. 91. This change, planned for next summer, will eliminate four dangerous grade crossings of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad.

These crossings are in the vicinity of Pickett, Elie and Misk, where Oshkosh-Ripon rd., which is the main route to Green Lake, takes the form of a double "S," crossing and recrossing the rails four times without any apparent reason except that the road might have been laid out like many others in earlier days by following some wooded trail. One of these crossings is located in a deep cut where it is impossible to see a train approaching from either way without driving almost on the rails.

The old road is to remain a part of the county system to accommodate the towns, but the new road built entirely east of the tracks and parallel with them will be constructed of concrete and made a part of highway No. 91, linking up with Ripon rd. beyond Fisk. Incidentally, the change will save autists three-quarters of a mile in distance.

CLAMP LID DOWN ON "DOPE" SALES

Police Department Has no Difficulty With Dope Addicts in Appleton

"Snowbirds" or persons who are dope fiends fortunately are missing from Appleton's population.

"The number of drug addicts in many cities is increasing," says George T. Prim, chief of police, "but we have not been bothered with them here. The reason is because I have taken up with druggists and doctors the matter of selling morphine, cocaine or other habit-forming drugs and they are agreed that the welfare of the city should compel the restriction of such sales."

No provision has been made here to care for these unfortunates who fall victims to the drug habit because there has been no need for treatment. Chief Prim believes in getting at the evil at the source and keeping people from acquiring the craving for these dangerous stimulants.

A city free from dope addicts is in a fortunate position, the chief says, because it is a serious problem with police departments wherever the lid is not clamped down tight.

to one of the 60 students who worked on the set. The winning student will receive the complete set for the cost of the material which is less than one-sixth of the market price. The set consists of one buffet, one table and six chairs.

THE DEMOCRATS AND THE TREATY

Reports from Washington tell of organization of a nation-wide fight against the four-power Pacific treaty in which both Republican and Democratic opponents of the agreement are to join forces. One phase of the plan is to re-arouse and consolidate anti-Japanese sentiment on the Pacific coast. This is said to be the nucleus of the organized campaign. Propagandists are to be sent throughout the middle west and northwest, while anti-treaty clubs and anti-treaty mass meetings are to attempt to influence public opinion.

Perhaps the most striking feature of this fantastic idea is the reported purpose of the Democrats to make political capital out of hostility to the treaty on the theory that if the Republicans could sweep the nation by 7,000,000 votes on an anti-league platform the Democrats ought to be able to sweep it in the coming congressional elections by opposing a treaty which they argue the country will find even more obnoxious than the League itself. Political parties have made many egregious blunders, but we know of few that exceed this in downright stupidity. In the first place the Democrats ought to know that Mr. Harding was not elected president because of opposition to the League of Nations. He would have been elected by just as great a majority had he been the proponent of the League. The League had no appreciable effect on the election. Politicians only deceive themselves, whether they are Republicans or Democrats, when they attribute results of the 1920 election to the League of Nations issue.

Public opinion in this country was and is overwhelmingly in favor of the purposes of the League of Nations. It was demonstrated by every organized movement and petition of any sort or description with the solitary exception of the political cabal in the United States senate that centered about Mr. Lodge. Public opinion is today overwhelmingly in favor of the four-power treaty. There cannot be the slightest question about it. An attempt in the senate to defeat the treaty on the ground of its unpopularity would be just as absurd and just as untenable as was the conspiracy in the senate against the League. California would enlist absolutely no sympathy in any other portion of the country in an effort to revive prejudice and feeling against the Japanese. Politicians, Democrats as well as Republicans, who seek to carry out any such scheme will find they have tripped themselves on a rope.

People want the four-power treaty ratified, and they want it ratified promptly. They want to make no mistake about insuring disarmament and about closing the guarantees of peace that this great treaty contains. Although it is essentially the same, in a narrower field of action, as the League of Nations, the people will not tolerate another insurrection in the senate that could have any prospect of defeating it. If the Democrats attempt to make this an issue in the congressional elections, and take a stand against the treaty, they will only forfeit to a still larger degree the confidence and support of the people.

A HEALTHY BURLESQUE

Charles M. Stotz, of Crafton, Pa., is reported to have deceived a large audience in Cornell university, in which institution he is a senior in the college of architecture, by posing as a Viennese savant and seriously delivering a mock-scientific lecture on the meaning of dreams. The remarkable feature of this prank was not that his talk deeply interested his attentive hearers, but that he had sufficient self-confidence to perform his impersonation without faltering.

It may be, as is intimated, that certain members of the faculty were in collusion with Stotz in a really worthy design to ridicule scientific absurdities, and that they had intended to expose the imposition by an announcement at the conclusion of his address, but fear of an anti-climax deterred them from doing so.

In any event, the incident will not injure Cornell, as a clever student could under certain circumstances be successful with a similar hoax in almost any large educational establishment. On the contrary, it should be productive of good, as it will caution ultra-progressives not to take every plausible theory for granted. And if Stotz's record is satisfactory, this artistic acting should not prevent him from receiving his degree.

Psychology is one of those visionary studies in which it is exceptionally easy to be extreme and to accept fantastic suppositions as wonderful discoveries. It is largely a speculative science, in which grave meaning is attached to day-dreams of nothing in particular. Stotz must have a sane sense of humor.

RUSSIA'S LESSON IN GOVERNMENT

The famine and plague in Russia are reliable indications to students of history and economics that the downfall of communism is as inevitable as winter, and may happen at any moment. The certainty of this deduction is plain from one generally known fact. This is that eighty-five per cent of the people of Russia are farmers, who believe in working hard and faithfully and who adhere to the sound principle that the product of their labor, minus legitimate cost of maintaining satisfactory and efficient government, is theirs by right. Farmers never have been friendly to socialism, or sovietism; if they were in favor of this form of despotism there would be no famine, and were there no famine there would be no plague.

Dr. M. Paul Miliukov, first minister of foreign affairs under the provisional government, and at present official propagandist in the United States of the Russian constituent assembly in Paris, is delivering addresses in the larger American cities on the Russian situation. "The end of Bolshevik rule," Dr. Miliukov declares, "is so near that it may come in a week—a month, but not many months." The probable method of transition from communism to representative government is speculative. Will it be possible for Lenin to effectuate the change by peaceful artifice and retain his political station? Or will there be a revolution? Dr. Miliukov predicts a revolution, as he believes the farmers are prepared to strike the death-blow to socialism at any moment.

It is worth while for us to pay close attention to Russia, for Trotzky is massing and training the forces of the Bolshevik army, which is 600,000 strong. There are 300,000 communist civilians in the cities, chiefly in Moscow and Petrograd subject to draft. Trotzky is the man to watch; in all probability, he will succeed Lenin at the crisis. Inasmuch as several different kinds of radical socialism have proponents in the United States, and there always are many malcontents and visionaries susceptible to these doctrines, it will be of practical benefit to keep the American public fully and fairly informed as to developments and results in Russia.

Dr. Miliukov gathers from Russian experience the same conclusion regarding extreme types of government that science indorses and previous experience demonstrated. The Russian farmers have found out that socialism is the most pernicious, dictatorial and injurious of all political systems of despotism. On the other hand, they have not forgotten the unbearable tyrannies of autocracy. What is the clear and positive conclusion ratified by Russian experience? Every patriotic American thinks and answers rightly. True republican, or popular government cannot be realized with sovietism, socialism, communism or any similarly radical political system. Representative government produces the best and most satisfactory conditions for the masses. It is significant that Dr. Miliukov asserts that the Russian peasantry will revolt against communism, as they would against autocracy, to secure true democracy.

THE BOLD LEGGED PROBLEM

A young woman wrote me the other day very frankly that she was "bold legged" and she wished to know what can be done about it. Isn't that rather a matter of education?
I have been on record for at least a year as an enthusiastic advocate of short skirts, somewhere around knee length, speaking purely, or at any rate untrammelled, in general, fairly plump legs. Legs are quite as proper as arms at least they are as proper as forearms. It is praiseworthy to call "legs" "limbs" when you really mean legs or thighs. The times change. As a hygienist I do not believe in bold leggedness. I bow to no man as a connoisseur in the matter of legs, yet bold leggedness seems as deplorable to me as a salacious picture. Perhaps I can best make my view clear by quoting the following paragraph from an article by Helen Bullitt Lowry in the New York Times Book Review and Magazine Oct. 23, 1921:

"So the dress reform advocates would solve the problem by turning back the sands of time—by squeezing these breezy little birds (flappers) back into the egg shell of the nineteenth century. Instead of such folly, the Girl Scout movement goes to the heart of the matter. It takes them entirely out of the skirts and puts them into bloomers and brief proof stockings. It starts the radical idea that legs are given us neither that we should conceal them by skirts nor that we should display them by silk stockings—but instruments to swim and climb mountains with. That is the crux of the Girl Scout philosophy toward the human body."

That's the idea exactly. Some women can say considerably if you give 'em plenty of room to say it in.

It isn't the mere fact that the stockings are of silk or near silk texture that I would criticize as bold leggedness. It is the fact that so many girls and women of a frothy sort, wobbly as to gray matter, you understand, wear just enough silk on their legs to display the legs—display is the word.

Now a frankly naked leg is all right, so is a naked knee, from the hygienist's point of view. But a leg or knee trimmed with a wisp or so of silk or near silk, deliberately for exhibition purposes, is bold leggedness of the most reprehensible kind and the woman who dares risk bold leggedness is either mentally defective or too good to be true.

The Girl Scout uniform does achieve a degree of sweetness and attractiveness that no rugged bold legged flapper can hope to approach, and since women's fashions of late years have run to the indulgent or flapper type, wouldn't it be a blessing if the fashion artists could evolve a revised style which would sweep bold leggedness off the streets and vouchsafe us mere men something a little less "daring," a little less crude, to gaze upon, if legs are to remain in evidence permanently?

Simply as ornaments for vain display the shapeless legs soon pall on the observer. But legs that are useful and only incidentally on view are a great and lasting success.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

The Wholesome Office Temp.

Kindly state what in your opinion is the proper temperature for a large office where fifty or more people are employed at their desks.—(W. S. N.)

Answer—Sixty-seven degrees Fahrenheit.

Gas and Flowers

I am a florist and I find that gas as used in our homes is noxious to most vegetables. (exceptions being certain ferns, palms, cacti and a few others). Geraniums suffer. If I take the almost dead plant from the living room into the greenhouse it presently comes back to life; if I then take it back into the house, where we use gas, it begins to die. This difficulty is not known in the summer season, but only in winter when doors and windows are closed. Many florists have found gas noxious, even the house plants die. Is it not equally harmful to human beings?—(G. A. B.)

Answer—When illuminating gas burns in a stove or lamp burner with a flickering flame or with a roar of noise likely some of the gas is escaping into the atmosphere unburned. It may be that plants are more sensitive to minute amounts of unburned gas than animals are. The ventilation of the house may be defective if, as you say, the doors and windows are kept closed too carefully in the winter time.

A. P. Whitman entertained the Odd Fellows and Rebekah lodges at supper at Stevens restaurant.

The Appleton Knitting Co. distributed a quantity of knit skirts, stockings and mittens among the poor of the city.

A team belonging to Mike Kirby ran away from the blacksmith shop at Calmes' corner the night previous and had not been located.

Fred Peterson, Jr., disposed of 10,000 pounds of poultry for Christmas use. About 3,000 pounds were shipped to the northern part of the state. Turkeys were selling at ten cents a pound wholesale.

In Saecker & Morgan's show window were exhibited several skins of the silver fox, wolf, lynx and fisher brought from the Seine river country in Canada by John Thibault.

All the paper mills of the city closed down until the following Monday because of Christmas.

Idle Miners and Wartime Prices for Coal

Word comes from the Pennsylvania fields that 22,000 miners are idle, the reason for closing down the mines being that the coal market is dull. Unemployment among the miners is not very pleasant at the beginning of winter. It is an economic paradox that so many millions of people need more coal and yet the miners, able and willing to dig it out of the ground, are forced into idleness. Most coal dealers complain that the people are not buying coal as they did last year because the price is too high. They are holding back their orders in the hope that the operators, the railroads or somebody else will soon relent and cause the prices to go down. The philosophers tell us that hope springs eternal in the human breast but the stern facts ought to teach us coal consumers that there is no basis for hope in the anthracite coal situation at home as the operators and railroads can manage to make so deep a mystery of the cost of producing so vital a necessity.—ALBANY TIMES UNION (Ind.)

Laws About Women

By Frederic J. Haskin

Washington, D. C.—The searchlight is being turned, perhaps more thoroughly than ever before, on the laws which affect women. The National Woman's Party is going systematically from state to state making surveys of these laws. Then, when legislatures are in session, they will quietly and innocently in what way women are bound unfairly by their statutes, the feminists are ready with a report showing concisely the state's legal attitude toward women.

Haskin, the state's legal attitude toward women. Louisiana, Mississippi, Louisiana, and Alabama are the four states which so far have been studied. These states were taken first because the state legislatures were to meet there. Now, the woman's party workers are going on to collect evidence on nine more states where the legislatures convene early in the coming year.

This is a part of the campaign to get each state to pass a blanket bill removing all legal disabilities of women. Wisconsin is, so far, the only state to adopt such a measure.

Last spring, in a nine weeks' campaign, Wisconsin put through a bill which gave the women of the state the same rights and privileges before the law as the men hold. The bill instructed the courts to take the words he, his, him, and similar words indicating the masculine gender in the state laws to include also the feminine equivalents. One exception to this was provided: The laws are not to be so read where the construction would deny to females the special protection and privileges which they now enjoy for the general welfare. This refers, in part, to the laws protecting women in industry.

Wisconsin made this sweeping change without much ado. But when the proposal came to the four southern legislatures that met a little later, it was given a different reception. Louisiana, it is true, did take action to the extent of repealing nine specific discriminations against women. As one result all political and civil offices in the state are now open to women.

Another reform achieved by Louisiana compels a husband to obtain consent of his wife before he can sell or mortgage his home. The rest of the family property remains under control of the husband as before. But the wife is assured that the roof over her head will not be sold without any reference to her wishes or interests.

Louisiana agreed to nine changes, but the radical idea of absolute legal equality for women was turned down flatly. The other three state legislatures to which the measure was submitted also rejected it. And yet, the feminists point out, these states, progressive in many ways, are far behind some other states in their legal treatment of women.

Marriage in Mississippi
The survey of the state laws showed that even in the old common law holds. For instance, a wife in Mississippi was refused the right to sue for damages for the alienation of her husband's affections. The laws of the state give the husband control of the wife's personal property, and the court held that in these circumstances if the wife were the suitor, the erring husband would benefit by it as he could appropriate the money.

In this state, which is not the most backward of the 48, a woman practically leases herself out to her husband for life. In return for her services she receives her board and keep. But she cannot require her husband to pay her anything. She has no right to any part of the family income and she has no interest in her husband's property unless he dies and leaves it.

Thus, when a woman was injured by a fall on an exposed gas pipe, the wife received damages for her personal injury, but the husband was allowed by the court to collect the amount awarded as the loss of her services in the home.

According to the report from Florida, the women of that state are under the domination of the old English common law to a greater extent than perhaps any other state in the union. According to the common law a married woman "could make no contract of any kind." This, the report shows, is true in Florida today with a few exceptions. Unless her husband has been pronounced insane and has been insane for a year, a married woman may not have a mortgage, or sell even property given or willed to her without his consent. If the husband is a criminal he still has this control over his wife's property.

A husband in this state may do as he likes with the proceeds from his wife's separate property, and she may not sue him even to secure an accounting of what he has done with her own money. The report points out that a court decision extended the husband's authority even to ownership of his wife's clothes. And in another case a court ruled that a married woman did not have the right to hire domestic servants.

In this day when so many married women prefer to work in an office or shop to work in a kitchen it is interesting to note that in Alabama the husband generally has authority, backed up by law, to say whether his wife may work outside the home. To quote a court decision the husband is entitled to his wife's services to the extent that she is still in this respect "merely a servant." So this in 1914 decided that if outside work would interfere with her domestic duties a husband could legally prevent his wife from entering paid employment.

So many women have business experience before marriage that the home standard have been advancing more rapidly than the laws. The modern woman knows the unit of labor which earned a dollar in the store or office and she compares that with her work about the house. She figures that she is putting her share into a business partnership and that whatever is saved or acquired is in part hers.

There are several theories with which the modern domestic establishment is experimenting. One is to make the home a partnership and to have everything about the home held jointly. Another idea is for each of the contracting parties to hold his or her own share separately. In this plan the wife might receive a fixed salary for housework besides money set aside for her to pay certain of the bills. What she can save out of her salary and expenses she puts away or spends to suit herself and the husband does likewise with his share of the budget.

"WHAT'S YOURS IS MINE"
By such a scheme the home of the business woman is apt to be run after marriage. But in many states it is only a courtesy arrangement by which the husband does not demand his legal rights. And in event of a disagreement or divorce, the wife finds that she has very little to show for her share of the home.

It is difficult to get a good many of the states to make sweeping changes in the old fashioned, discriminating laws, women campaign have found. As yet, however, legislative chairman of the woman's party has said, "In some states, like Louisiana and Alabama which has just taken adverse action, it has already been shown to be practically impossible to secure state laws. Further, state laws are never permanent. The next state legislature may repeal the measure passed by its predecessor."

Because of these facts, the woman's party is also working to have a constitutional amendment adopted giving women of the country legal equality with men. This amendment is still in process of evolution. The party wants it to be worded so that it is foolproof and so that it completely covers the case. Lawyers are now working on the amendment so that it can be introduced before Congress shortly.

The state bills and the amendment are intended to make secure women's rights in such matters as ownership and control of earnings, office holding, jury service, control of children, choice of domicile and name. The law of Louisiana provides that a wife must live where her husband decrees even if she supports him.

It is interesting to note that in the states where surveys have been made no statute provides that a woman married woman has a "right" of her husband. Here is a "right" of which women might have availed themselves for generations perhaps, yet few have done so. Those who went to law for their rights have it seems, been concerned with more vital affairs.

Q. How does a farce differ from a comedy? What is considered the best farce? J. L. K.
A. A farce differs from a comedy in the emphasis placed on the plot. In a farce the characters are what the plot requires them to be, while in comedy the plot is subordinated to the characters. The farce of Pathelin is considered the most famous, its authorship being attributed to different persons. Generally, Pierre Blanchet who lived in the fifteenth century is credited with it, but some think it was written by the poet Villon.

Resume of American and Foreign Newspaper Opinion

When A "Picket" Is A "Missionary"
Applying the "rule of reason" to strike-picketing, Chief Justice Taft hands down a decision which the FORT WAYNE (Ind.) JOURNAL GAZETTE (Dem.) calls "one of the most important and far-reaching in matters affecting labor in recent years." The Supreme Court decides that strikers may station "missionaries" at the doors of industrial establishments, to persuade strike-breakers not to work. But they may not resort to violence or threats, nor even station so many pickets that the non-striking worker is intimidated by their numbers.

What will be the effect on the conduct of strikes? This is a question that goes home not only to employers and workers but to the whole public. It is undoubtedly that there have been abuses of picketing "strong-arm" tactics have been employed to prevent men from working where a strike was in progress. Riots have sometimes ensued.

On the other hand, employers have sometimes obtained injunctions prohibiting any picketing or "missionary" whatever, and it was such a case that has just been decided in favor of the union by the Supreme Court. The decision says:

"In going to and from work, men have a right to as free a passage without obstruction as the streets afford, consistent with the rights of others to enjoy the same privilege. We are a social people, and the act of one of another in an offensive way and an offer by the one to communicate and discuss information with a view to influencing the other's action are not regarded as aggression or a violation of that other's rights. If, however, the offer is declined, as it may rightfully be, then importunity and dogging become unjustifiable and obstruction which is likely to savor of intimidation."

The rights of everybody concerned are "admirably set forth in this paragraph," thinks the BUFFALO EXPRESS (Ind. Rep.), but is everybody satisfied? Although the union wins the case, the CANTON (O.) NEWS (Dem.) holds that "the decision, in the main, may be accepted as unfavorable to the contentions of organized workers that they should have the right to adopt practically their own methods," and the PHILADELPHIA GAZETTE (Ind. Rep.) declares that "picketing, as it is commonly practiced, will find no opportunity" under the new ruling. The NORFOLK VIRGINIAN-PILOT (Ind. Dem.) goes even further: "The Clayton Act did not vest labor with a right to do wrong—that is the gist of the decision."

But the emphasis runs the other way in the opinion of many papers. Thus the SCRANTON TIMES (Dem.) believes that "that part of organized labor—and it is by far the major part—which believes in keeping within the laws when engaged in industrial disputes has no very great reason to complain of the decision," and it concludes:

"Labor's great complaint in reference to the use of the injunction as a weapon by the employer has been that the restrainers issued by many courts have been too sweeping and generally prohibitory of any and all rights of the employee. We believe that courts will be a trifle more careful in issuing injunctions against labor in the future."

An almost identical view is held by the PROVIDENCE TRIBUNE (Ind. Rep.) which says:

"There should be, as the court intimates, some opportunity given the men and women on strike to talk to take their places. It would seem as if the Supreme Court rather frowned upon the practice in some states of rushing to the court the very first thing and getting an injunction to prevent any kind of picketing."

It is evident to many commentators that the decision simply means that every case must be decided on its merits, with wide latitude for interpretation. For example the LINCOLN (Nebr.) STATE JOURNAL (Ind. Rep.) notes:

"The line drawn by the court is obviously somewhat difficult to follow, but it will appeal to most people as the line of fairness. To say that strikers may not peacefully communicate with strike breakers and present their case to them is a violation of fundamental American principles of freedom. * * * The court's purpose is to permit the use of 'missionaries' but not the employment of force."

But despite the difficulty of drawing the line, the same paper holds that—

"If we may assume the existence of adequate government at the seat of strike, government not under the control of either side, we may assure that the rules laid down by the court can be fairly well enforced."

THE OAKLAND (Cal.) TRIBUNE (Ind. Rep.) also points out that the "crossing of the line" that separates lawful from unlawful picketing, "is exceedingly easy and may be done unintentionally. It is," the paper continues, "a matter of temper and emotion in many cases, of personal provocation and personal retaliation. The picketing of a large industrial plant, such as the Chicago and Kansas City meat-packing establishments, cannot be carried out within the law unless the court's rule, that one or two men at each entrance are adequate is observed."

The suffragette picketing of the White House is recalled by the CHARLESTON (W. Va.) MAIL (Ind. Rep.) as a "conspicuous example of wrongful picketing," for although it appears to come within the letter of the law "their idea was to force something; for there is a force in this world other than physical force," and the paper concludes:

"Picketing to be lawful, must be good. Then what's the use of picketing at all?"

But possibly the NEW YORK TRIBUNE (Rep.) should have the palm for reducing Justice Taft's dictum to a homely admonition: "A picket must display good manners." It holds that the decision is an example of "fine BULLLETIN" (Ind. Rep.) declares that "picketing, as it is commonly practiced, will find no opportunity" under the new ruling. The NORFOLK VIRGINIAN-PILOT (Ind. Dem.) goes even further: "The Clayton Act did not vest labor with a right to do wrong—that is the gist of the decision."

But the emphasis runs the other way in the opinion of many papers. Thus the SCRANTON TIMES (Dem.) believes that "that part of organized labor—and it is by far the major part—which believes in keeping within the laws when engaged in industrial disputes has no very great reason to complain of the decision," and it concludes:

Appoint. Committees
The executive committee of the Young Peoples alliance of Emanuel Evangelical church met at the home of the president, Alvin Rabehl, Tuesday evening. Chairmen of various committees were appointed. They are: Christian work committee, Alvin Rabehl; literary and social culture, Marie Finger and Wilmer Sauberlich, advisory chairman; sympathy and relief, Floyd Rabehl; missionary, Arthur G. Gouette.

Other appointments made were: Bible study secretary, Mrs. Erwin Sauberlich; junior superintendent, Mrs. Jordan; intermediate superintendent, Amanda Franke. A look-out committee was appointed with Harold Jordan as chairman and a music committee with Erwin Sauberlich as chairman.

Third Ward Program
A program appropriate to the Christmas season was presented Wednesday afternoon in Third ward school and was put on for the benefit of the parents so they might become familiar with the work in the school as well as enjoy a Christmas program. Special teaching classes were offered the first hour in various rooms. A miscellaneous program followed, given by the pupils from the first to the eighth grades. It consisted of carols and choruses, dramatizations and a few folk dances. Some of the songs were accompanied by musical instruments.

Lady Eagles Party
More than 20 members of the Lady Eagles attended the regular card party at Eagle hall on Wednesday afternoon. Prizes were awarded at each table and went to Mrs. George Durdell, Mrs. E. Stecker, Mrs. W. Chopin, Mrs. Edward Lehman and Mrs. George Hogreiver. The next meeting of the lodge will take place Wednesday afternoon when the annual grab-bag party will be given. Members of the lodge will meet at Eagle hall on Thursday evening to prepare the Christmas tree and to fill boxes and bags for the Eagle party Sunday evening.

Spend Holiday at Home
Unless there is a demand for a copy at Appleton Womens clubroom on Christmas day, there will be no leader at the clubroom. Those in charge of the recreation department of the club have been making inquiries and find that no one wishes to spend the afternoon at the club. Any members who wish to use the rooms on either Christmas or the day following, or during the holiday season for parties may make arrangements at the clubroom.

G. L. Lindauer Weds
Word has been received of the marriage of Miss Madeline Sansineu, daughter of Mrs. Dolores Essvorn of Laifabara, Calif., to G. L. Lindauer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Lindauer formerly of Kaukauna. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's mother at Laifabara. The couple started at once on a long wedding trip, planning to visit relatives in the east and then to tour Europe.

Eagles Plan Party
Children of Eagles and their friends will be the guests of the Eagle lodge at Eagle hall at 8 o'clock Sunday evening when the annual Christmas program will be given. A large Christmas tree and plenty of goodies for all the children will feature the party. The program will consist of songs, readings and piano selections.

J. U. G. Club Supper
Members of the J. U. G. club will have a supper at Appleton Womens clubroom at 6:30 Thursday evening. The party to follow the supper is the annual Christmas event of the club.

M. P. Club Meeting
The M. P. club met Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Charles Preiberg, 889 Commercial-st. Ten members were present. The evening was spent in sewing. Miss Berna Nickush sang several solos. The next meeting will be held Wednesday at the home of Miss Ann Krueger, 1339 College-ave.

Deborah Rabehl Party
More than 65 members of the Deborah Rabehl lodge attended the annual Christmas party given Wednesday evening at Odd Fellow hall after the initiation of candidates. Both Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus attended the party and gave out presents.

Program in School
A box social and Christmas program will be given Friday evening in Oak Grove school, town of Kaukauna. The program will be put on by the students. Miss Mercedes McDaniell is the teacher.

Christmas Program
A Christmas program which is open to the public will be given at Sunnyside school near Black Creek on Friday evening. Miss Edna Schmidt is the teacher.

Surprise Party
Miss Edna Berg was pleasantly surprised Tuesday evening at her home at Black Creek by several young people who spent an evening with games and music.

Marriage License
An application for a marriage license was made to the county clerk's office by Elmer M. Schreier and Catherine Butler, both of Appleton.

CHRISTMAS GREETINGS
The "VOGUE" MILLINERY

MRS. HARDING IS DEMOCRATIC LADY

Special to the Post-Crescent
Washington—Mrs. Harding is the best "mixer" who ever presided as mistress of the White House, according to the oldest attaches there. They cannot recall a first lady who was so democratic.

Many visitors going through the East Room and other public parts of the White House have been given an unexpected thrill by the sudden appearance of Mrs. Harding on the scene. She takes great delight in coming downstairs unexpectedly and dropping in on sightseers wandering curiously about.

Although they usually recognize her in advance, she always walks up and extending her hand announces that "I am Mrs. Harding and I'm glad to see you here."

She usually asks what state the visitor is from and many times they discover mutual acquaintances. There is nothing formal about these little meetings and if she is busy, she says so and goes on. If she has time, often she shows them through other rooms. Despite the heavy drain on her energy, Mrs. Harding thoroughly enjoys her life in the White House. Her only difficulty is in adhering to the rest schedule which Dr. Sawyer insists upon. He calls every morning and watches her closely because in his years as the Harding family physician, he has learned that Mrs. Harding is too active for her own good, and his hardest job is to get her to take sufficient rest.

SHAWANO WOODS BELIEVED CENTER OF MOOTCH MAKING

Arrests at Shawano and Zion
City Indicate Wide Use of False Whisky Labels

Milwaukee—The discussion of moonshining activities of undreamed of magnitude in Wisconsin as the result of the reported arrest of four men near Shawano, together with the exposure of the wholesale distribution throughout the state of forged bonded whisky labels and the seizure at Zion City of an auto load of holiday liquor consigned to Milwaukee, were construed on Wednesday as the culmination of a federal prohibition department campaign to "bootleg" false moonshine in Wisconsin.

The men arrested at Shawano were taken into custody by federal prohibition department officials and deputy United States marshals, it was reported. They were said to be connected with a moonshine "factory" situated somewhere in the north woods which has been turning out liquor in great quantities.

The use of forged whisky labels on this moonshine was very strongly hinted by prohibition department officials who refused to deny the reported connection of the moonshine "factory" with the confiscation in Chicago on Tuesday of $3,000,000 worth of counterfeit whisky labels. According to one official, the moonshine was being labelled as bonded whisky and sold at bootleg prices. The arraignment of the moonshiners was expected to take place in Milwaukee on Thursday. Startling details regarding the methods of manufacture and sale employed by the moonshiners will probably develop at the preliminary hearing, officials said.

PICK EIGHT BOYS ON DEBATING TEAM

Kaukauna is Accepted as Member of Debate League—Elks to Meet

Kaukauna—Eight high school boys were accepted by the judges as qualified for places on the Wisconsin interscholastic debating league team which will represent Kaukauna high school. Tryouts were held Monday after school and in the evening and the eight boys were picked from a list of 15 candidates, two of whom were Amy Dayorgson, Donald McDonald, Harold Doris, affirmative; Myron Black, Carl Hansen, Joseph Schlude and Elmer Ott, negative.

Word has been received from the secretary of the debating league that the school is accepted as a member of the league but it is not yet known where in what triangle it will be placed. Each debating team will consist of three members and a substitute. A local contest will be held sometime before the first triangular debate in February and the regulars then will be determined.

SPEAKING CLUB MEETS
A regular meeting of the High school Public Speaking club was held Tuesday evening in the high school. A short business session was held and the remainder of the evening was devoted to making Christmas candy to be placed in the baskets for poor families.

T. E. Welsh of Janesville, district deputy grand exalted ruler, will be present at a meeting of the Kaukauna Elks Thursday evening in Elk hall. Several applications for membership will be considered. Plans are being made for the initiation of a large class at the first meeting in January.

Mulford Clothing Co. basketball team will start again Friday evening after a week's rest and will play the Interlake five in the armory in Appleton. Mulford's lineup will be taken from the following: Engerson, Ristau, Ott, Curry, Hohman, Chopin, Luedtke and Hass.

BOWLING TEAMS TIED
Dovling games between teams in the city major league have been suspended for a week or two because of the holidays. Games are bowled weekly and an interesting contest has developed. Zekind's five and Runt's Big Joes are tied for first place, each having won seven games and lost two.

Brewster's Wreckers are third with an average of 445, having won only four games and lost five. The Royal team occupies the cellar position.

CHRISTMAS FUND FOR POOR MOUNTS TO NEARLY $1,000

Kaukauna's Campaign to Relieve Suffering Achieves Great Success

Kaukauna—From an idea which caused the Kaukauna Trade and Lumber council to start a fund which has for its purpose the taking of Christmas joy and cheer into the homes of the poor families in this city, has sprung a benevolent movement which surpasses anything ever attempted in this city. As a result, the Christmas fund has grown by leaps and bounds, past the goal set and beyond the expectations of even the heartiest worker and the committee in charge have conceived the plan of extending the fund throughout the winter and caring for needy families until spring. In a short time the goal of $300 was passed and the fund has now swelled to about $700. Indications now are that it will amount to $1,000 before it is time to send out the Christmas baskets.

There are still a number of organizations which have not turned in money but have held meetings to decide the amount of the gift to the fund. At a meeting of the trades council committee and other cooperating committees in the library building Tuesday evening, final plans for the distribution of the baskets were made. Mrs. Catherine Sullivan, Mrs. James Conway, Mrs. A. R. McDonald and Mrs. H. E. Thompson will be the persons in charge, assisted by such workers as they will appoint.

In addition to the money gifts, several merchants have offered to give baskets of food nearly all business-men have offered to deliver the baskets to the homes indicated by the committee. According to the plan, a committee member will be stationed at each store where baskets are being put up. This plan was preferred to that of having the material taken to the Red Cross rooms to be packed. Clothing and toys as well as food are being prepared for those needy families.

The fund will be open all winter instead of closing at Christmas time. Gifts will be received at any time and the work begun by the trades council will continue indefinitely.

Elaborate Programs Will Be Offered In Appleton Churches

Christmas Carol, Nativity Pageants and Christmas Sermons Will Feature Services Saturday Night and Sunday—Children in Programs

The singing of Christmas carols will be one of the features of the Christmas services in the Protestant churches in Appleton on Christmas eve and at the Christmas day services. Midnight mass, which is celebrated only on Christmas eve, will be held in all the Catholic churches and at All Saint Episcopal church.

Because Christmas falls on Sunday, most of the churches are following the regular Sunday schedule of services on that day with appropriate music and Christmas sermons. Several churches are planning Christmas cantatas and pageants on Friday and Saturday evenings, while others are having early morning services to commemorate the birth of the Saviour.

Pageant On Friday

Among the churches which have planned programs for Friday evening is the Baptist church whose young men and women will present "The Birth of Christmas" at 8 o'clock. More than 40 young people will take part. Christmas day services at this church will be at 10:30 Sunday, when Rev. A. L. McMillan will preach on the "Sign of God." The quartet and the junior choir will sing. There will be the regular evening service.

The Congregational church also has planned a Friday evening program to begin at 7:30 with the singing of Christmas carols. The church school will conduct its annual white gift service after a Christmas cantata is presented. Each class and individuals in the class will bring their white gifts to the manager.

Christmas services will be at the regular time when the Rev. H. E. Peabody will deliver his Christmas sermon. Rev. C. W. Cross will tell the Christmas story to the children and there will be special Christmas music under the direction of Dean Carl Waterman. The 7:30 service in the evening will be the Christmas story in pictures with the Mr. Cross telling the accompanying Christmas story.

CHRISTMAS EVE SERVICE

Many churches have prepared Christmas eve services. Among them, the Presbyterian church will present the mystery play, "The Nativity," at the church on Saturday evening. The regular Sunday morning schedule will be followed on Christmas day with special music and the Christmas sermon by the Rev. E. W. Wright. A special program has been prepared for the Sunday school at 9:45 on Sunday. During the regular children's party will take place on Monday evening.

An elaborate program has been prepared at the Trinity English Evangelical Lutheran church for 7:30 Saturday evening. The children of the congregation will give a number of recitations and will sing carols and Christmas songs assisted by the choir. An early morning service known as Christmas Matins will take place at 6 o'clock. The subject will be "No Room in the Inn." Special music will be furnished by the choir.

Members of the Sunday school of the English Lutheran church will have charge of the presentation of "O Little Town of Bethlehem." The distribution of gifts to the Sunday school members will follow this cantata. On Christmas day there will be a special session of the Sunday school at 9:30 to be followed by preparatory services at 10 o'clock. Festival services with holy communion will take place at 10:30 at which the topic for the sermon will be "Down to Bethlehem." The choir will furnish special music.

Children of the Zion school and Sunday school will have their annual Christmas party at 7 o'clock Saturday. They will be given their Christmas books and other gifts. The services at the Zion church on Christmas day will be three, a German service at 6 o'clock in the morning, an English service at 9 and another German service at 10:15. A German service will also take place at the Zion church at 10:15 on Monday. Special music will be sung by the choir at all the services.

MIDNIGHT MASS

At St. Joseph church, an orchestra will accompany the choir at the midnight mass and at the 10:30 services. Other masses will be read at 6, 7, and 9:15. Special music and a vestal choir will be used at the midnight service at St. Mary church and the Christmas day services will be at the same hours as on Sunday, 7:30, 9 and 10:30. Besides the midnight service with special music at Sacred Heart church, masses will be at 7:30 a.m. 10 o'clock. Masses at All Saint Episcopal church will include a mid night service with Christmas music at 11:30 Saturday night and at 7:30 and 8:30 on Christmas day.

The Sunday evening service at the First Methodist church will be one of the few Christmas night programs it will open with "O Holy Night" sung by the quartet. Christmas carols by the senior department are an important part of the service. Mrs. Marie Boehm will sing "Star of the Orient," and Prof. F. W. Orr will read "The First Christmas Tree," by Henry Van Dyke. The subject for the Christmas morning service at 11 o'clock is "A Christmas Meditation."

CHILDREN'S PARTY
An elaborate program will be given at the German Methodist church at 7:45 Saturday evening in which the children and the various church organizations will take part. The Christmas church service will take place at the regular time on Sunday. There will also be a children's party at 7:30 Saturday evening at the German Reformed church. The Sunday school classes will take part. At 10 o'clock Sunday morning, there will be the Christmas service consisting of an English cantata, the Christmas theme in song and story, followed by a German sermon.

The annual Christmas program, given by the children of St. John Evangelical church will be presented at the church at 7:30 on Christmas eve. The church will have a large Christmas tree and after an address by the pastor, the Rev. A. Jahnke, gifts will be given to the children. There will be a special Christmas service in the church at 10 o'clock Sunday morning, but there will be no Sunday school.

SHORT CANTATAS

Several short cantatas will be given at Emmanuel Evangelical Association church at 7:30 Saturday evening besides a program of special music and readings. The Christmas sermon at the church will take place at 10 o'clock Sunday morning. The children's program and party at St. Matthew church will begin at 7 o'clock. After the address by the pastor and special music by the choir, gifts will be given the children. On Christmas day, there will be a German sermon at 9 o'clock and an English sermon at 10; the subject being "The Christmas Joy."

Saturday evening programs have been arranged at Mount Olive and St. Paul Lutheran churches for Saturday evening. The Christmas services with special music and Christmas sermons will take place at the regular time on Sunday.

Basketball Practice
Candidates for the St. Alorinus Young Men's basketball society team will meet for the first practice at 7:30 Thursday evening in St. Joseph gymnasium.

Is Your Back Giving Out?

Is a bad back making you miserable? Are you tortured with a dull, wearing backache, and sharp, stabbing pains? It's time then, you looked to your kidneys. A cold, a strain, or overwork has probably weakened your kidneys and brought on that nagging backache, those headaches, dizzy spells and kidney irregularities. Don't wait for some serious trouble. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. Your home folks recommend them. Ask your neighbor!

An Appleton case. Mrs. C. D. Ingenthron, 951 Morrison St., says: "I had kidney trouble and suffered from distressing backaches and pains across my loins. Nights, my back ached and pained badly and mornings I was stiff and lame. I used three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills and I have had no occasion to use a kidney medicine since. I give Doan's the credit for my cure."

APIARISTS MUST BE ON GUARD TO KEEP HIVES CLEAN

See Industry Is Endangered by
"Foul Brood," University
Expert Says

In his address before Fox River Valley Beekeepers association in the city hall Wednesday afternoon, C. D. Adams, of the division of markets, Madison, called attention of members to the necessity of keeping their bees free from foul brood which is working havoc with the honey industry in some portions of the state.

While the disease is not as prevalent in Outagamie-co. as in some of the neighboring counties it is nevertheless up to members to keep their colonies free from it, said Mr. Adams. In Outagamie-co. the disease is most prevalent in the vicinity of Bear Creek and certain other portions of the northern part of the county, but is liable to make its appearance in other parts at any time.

Abandon Industry
In some of the southern counties of the state, particularly Kenosha-co., the industry is practically abandoned due to the disease which the beekeepers apparently have been unable to clean up. Milwaukee-co. of which, Mr. Adams is a resident and the owner of several colonies of bees is about free from the disease after a determined fight that has extended over several years.

The speaker said his bees had suffered with those of his neighbors and while the disease will yield to treatment if thoroughly and carefully made he was of the opinion in most instances it is advisable to destroy the bees as this is practically the only way of preventing the disease from spreading.

Mr. Adams made his subject so instructive and aroused so much interest that he was kept busy for more than an hour answering questions. He said foul brood was due to a germ and about the only way it could be destroyed was by burning.

He was asked if boiling the hives would answer the purpose, but did not recommend this method because he said he had known germs to survive 15 minutes of intense boiling and also because so few beekeepers could carry out this plan. His plan was to dig a hole and do the burning in the ground and then cover the ashes over with several inches of earth.

"If we cannot do away with the disease," said Mr. Adams, "I cannot see any hope for commercial beekeeping in Wisconsin. In Milwaukee-co. when we started to clean up the disease four out of every ten neighbors had foul brood. Today I don't know where I could find any trace of it."

HONEY GRADING
Mr. Adams devoted the latter part of his talk to the grading and marketing of honey. He said that Appleton had sold less honey illegally than any other city in the state. "It is very seldom I find any honey in the store here that is not properly marked," he said. He credited this condition to a live grocers association.

The speaker claimed that rapid progress had been made in the production of honey but inquired about marketing at a profit. He wanted to know if honey was sold at a profit five years ago and if anyone knew it was being sold at a profit today. Until required to pay an income tax he said very few farmers kept books and did not know whether they were raising their crops at a profit or loss.

Mr. Adams dwelt at length upon the necessity of grading honey as now required by law in order that beekeepers may be protected as to price and that jobbers may know the quality of honey they purchase. He said Wisconsin has the reputation of producing the best honey in the country.

The address on "Cooperation" which was to have been delivered by L. P. Whitehead was dispensed with because of the lateness of the hour. At the annual meeting of Fox River Valley Beekeepers association early in December George A. Breiterick was re-elected president; Malachi Ryan was re-elected vice president; and Edward Hassinger, Jr. was re-elected secretary and treasurer. Mr. Hassinger presided at the special meeting Wednesday.

Christmas Cards Remind Tourists Of Visit Here

Appleton will receive considerable national "good will" advertising in a novel Christmas greeting plan put in to effect here by Hugh G. Corbett, managing secretary of the chamber of commerce. Last summer, during the tourist season, Mr. Corbett maintained an information bureau at the chamber headquarters and insisted that every tourist register his name and address with him as he applied for information. In that way Mr. Corbett learned the names of hundreds of strangers who visited Appleton.

Now the secretary is sending Christmas greetings to all these tourists, recalling their visit to Appleton last summer and inviting them to come again. This little reminder is sure to make a deep impression on the tourists and cause them to feel that Appleton is a live city, and it appreciates the tourist.

Here is the text of the greeting:

"Appleton, Wisconsin, wishes to extend to you the heartiest of Christmas greetings and the best wishes for the New Year."

"We hope that your short stay with us last summer is one of the pleasant recollections of your vacation auto trip and that we may have the pleasure of a return visit, not only next summer, but again and again."

ORGANIZE STATE TO BOOM WEEK-DAY RELIGION SCHOOL

Schools Similar to the One Here Will be Established in Many Cities

Week-day schools of religion for grade school children such as Appleton churches united to establish last fall evidently will be adopted all through Wisconsin as the result of a meeting of the assembly of the state religious education association in Madison. Dr. Samuel Plantz, president of Lawrence college, and several instructors are included in the assembly.

Edward Blakeman, state director of the association announces that the purpose of the movement will be "to mobilize that half of the state which is identified with organized christianity and to invent ways of teaching religion to the rising generations more effectively."

Four distinct commissions were authorized by the assembly, and are assigned to groups according to divisions of public schools. They are: A commission on week-day schools of religion for grade children; commission for religious training of college students; religious education of normal students and training of religious teachers; religious education for university students.

It was felt by the assembly that more adequate training in religion is essential to the republic. Each community is to sponsor organizing such schools through its churches, but are to keep religious training separate

NO SHOPLIFTING HERE, POLICE SAY

Not An Arrest for Pilfering in Stores Here in Last
Two Years

Shoplifting is a crime that gives the Appleton police force little trouble, according to George T. Prim, chief of police, who says people here are uniformly honest and not an arrest has been made for this cause during the entire year.

This condition is regarded as a credit to Appleton people and is reassuring to the merchants who thank themselves that this terror of the larger cities is not in evidence here.

Officers are stationed in all the larger stores where crowds congregate, but their watchfulness, while it may frighten temptation out of the minds of some bent on theft, has not led to any arrests.

Chief Prim says the last time the department was called upon to make an arrest for shoplifting was two years ago, when several loads of merchandise stolen here and in nearby cities was seized in a home at Neenah and the thieves taken into custody and sentenced.

Men Combine To Decorate Their Church

If any member of Trinity English Lutheran congregation failed to attend service in the church last Sunday he is due for a surprise when he enters the edifice on Christmas day.

Men of the congregation last week re-decorated the interior, giving it three coats of paint and making it look like new. They did this work entirely on their own initiative, putting on the first two coats in two evenings while the final coat was put on by five men working during the day.

Women of the congregation got together and purchased two large brass candlesticks which they presented to the church. They will be used the first time on Christmas day.

M'CARTER'S HENS WIN AT WINONA POULTRY SHOW

Appleton's reputation as the home of prize winning chickens again is emphasized by the awards captured by each of eleven show chickens entered in a large exhibit in Winona, Minn. last week by L. H. McCarter, local poultry fancier. This announcement comes right on the heels of winning a large share of the awards in the recent poultry show in Fond du Lac.

Mr. McCarter took seven first prizes, three second and one third, to collect taxes or properly accented Seabright Bantams—hens, first, second and third; cocks, first and second; cockerel, first; pullet, first; White Cochon Bantams—hens, first and second; pullet, first; cockerel, first.

City Has No Attraction For The Five Farmer Sons Of Mr. and Mrs. J. Paltzer

Outagamie County Farmers Found a Way of Keeping Their Sons on the Farm — All Have Achieved Prosperity

To have overcome in all of their five sons the desire to leave the farm is the accomplishment of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Paltzer of this city. Each of their boys is counted among the most successful farmers in Outagamie county, happily situated on modernly equipped farms of their own.

This enviable position which Mr. and Mrs. Paltzer occupy in the minds of perhaps many other farmers and the manner in which it was accomplished are described in an article in a recent issue of the Wisconsin Agriculturist. Photographs of the couple, of four of the farms and of George Paltzer, a grandson, are shown with the story which was written by Paul O. Nyhus, farm agent of the First National bank, and is printed on the front page of the magazine.

Mr. and Mrs. Paltzer believed that anything acquired without effort is rarely appreciated. Instead of giving the boys their farms outright, therefore, each was allowed to rent a place at a low rental and buy it when the earnings produced enough money.

BOUGHT MORE LAND
As the boys grew up Mr. Paltzer acquired more land. The boys wanted to leave the farm and work elsewhere, but Mrs. Paltzer insisted that there was work enough at home, and that the added acreage produced enough. The sons therefore stayed at home. Each was paid what was considered a good wage as soon as he became 21, and this money was saved toward equipping a farm.

Before John, the oldest son, was married, the father bought a 60-acre farm just across the road from the home place. John had saved enough so he was able to buy the necessary stock and equipment. He rented the farm from his father for $175 a year and at the end of five years bought the place, borrowing part of the money.

With the money realized from the sale, the elder Mr. Paltzer bought an 80-acre farm on which buildings were erected. Nick, the second son, took over this place at a rental of $425 a year and bought it last spring for $18,000. The young man took with him two purebred helters from which he has built up his present exceptional herd.

ABLE LIKE FARMING
Matt Paltzer, the third son, also rented a productive 80-acre tract from his father on a cash basis. The two youngest sons, 27 and 29, are operating the hold homestead and one of them has built a home on an additional 40 acres which has been added to the original 80. The boys thus are prospering from their own efforts and in their comfortable situation cannot be dislodged in favor of any other occupation.

The senior Mr. and Mrs. Paltzer left the farm three years ago, and with their two daughters live in a comfortable residence in Appleton. They are within an hour's ride of all the farms of their children, and spend much of their time in the country helping one or another. The brothers live within a short distance of each other.

Mr. and Mrs. Paltzer had $1,300 at the time of their marriage in 1889, with which they bought 40 acres of stump land in Outagamie county. They spent two years on this land and then were lured to Iowa, where they settled on a 65-acre prairie farm at Dunlap.

"Those were poor times," Mr. Paltzer said. "Hogs sold for 3 cents and shelled corn brought 18 to 20 cents a bushel."

Iowa in those days gave no promise of the booms of recent years. For seven years the couple farmed there and then was induced by Mrs. Paltzer's parents to return to Outagamie county, taking up what is now the original Paltzer eighty. They raised vegetables for the Appleton market and received 45 cents a hundred pounds for milk, realizing a profit at that figure.

OFFER SPLENDID SAVINGS CHANCE

Government is Offering Treasury
Certificates in Various Denominations

A splendid opportunity is given the public to save a portion of its earnings with safety and with a substantial interest return by purchase of United States treasury savings certificates of the December 15 issue, according to Postmaster Gustave Keller. These are obtainable at the post-office. They draw interest of 4 1/2 per cent, compounded and payable semi-annually providing they are held for five years until maturity.

Owners may withdraw their money before maturity, but will receive 3 1/2 per cent compound interest instead of the higher return. The denominations of the securities are $25, $100 and $1,000, thus attracting the small investor as well as the man with a larger income.

Mr. Keller points to several advantages which buyers of these securities enjoy. They are exempt from all county, state and local taxes, except estate and inheritance taxes and also are exempt from normal federal income taxes. The government promises not to call the notes before the 5-year period is up and guarantees they will not be subject to market fluctuations. No person or firm, corporation or association may buy more than $5,000 worth, but if they obtain this amount before Dec. 31, may buy another quota after Jan. 1.

TAKE OFF TAX ON TOILET ARTICLES

National Association of Druggists Announces Repeal of Tax Law

The National Association of Retail Druggists has sent notifications to all drug store members of the association, that the repeal of the special tax on proprietary medicines and toilet articles will become effective Jan. 1, 1922.

Due to the misunderstanding as to the date on which many of the provisions of the new revenue act takes effect, tax officials of the treasury department have given out official information that the tax on perfumes, toilet articles, and medicines will be removed Jan. 1 but until that date merchants must continue to affix stamps and returns will be made to the government under the old revenue act for the month of December.

Druggists are more than pleased to learn that they will be relieved of the large amount of detail work in connection with making monthly reports and tax returns to the government to say nothing of the possibility of fines and penalties being imposed for failure to collect taxes or properly account for such collections.

The tax provided for in the new revenue measures applicable to fountain straws becomes effective Jan. 1, 1922. On and after that date there will be a tax of 3 cents a gallon on all finished straws sold to dealers.

JAIL TERMS IMPOSED TO UNCOVER "MOON" SOURCE

Oconto—The lid has been clamped on tight in Oconto, as in Chicago. The county jail, which up to recently was occupied by the sheriff and his family, now is filled almost to capacity. An "epidemic of moonshine" appears to have spread through the city. Those arrested thus far have refused to divulge where they get the liquor and county officials are determined to wring from them the information. If a sentence in the jail will turn the trick.

BANDIT CONCEALS SELF IN STORE; SLUGS OWNER

Marquette—John Holmquist, a Marquette business man, was slugged by a bandit who had hidden in his store. When Holmquist was about to enter the living rooms, in the back of the store the intruder sprang out from the hallway and after attacking Holmquist escaped through a window.

Turkeys Ten Cents A Pound 25 Years Ago

In the 25 year ago column mention was made this week of 10,000 pounds of poultry having been purchased by Fred Petersen, 3,000 pounds of which were shipped to the mines in the northern part of Michigan.

In recalling the shipments, Albert Rehbein, who has since become a partner of Mr. Petersen, said all the employees frequently worked all night during the week preceding Christmas in getting the poultry, mostly turkeys, ready for shipment.

The mines took all the poultry they could get at Christmas time and a carload at a time was occasionally sent out of Appleton. The wholesale price of turkeys was around 10 cents per pound.

In time Minnesota and Dakota turkeys replaced those from Wisconsin because they could be secured at less cost and western freight rates were more favorable.

Home-made, but Has No Equal for Coughs

Makes a family supply of really dependable cough medicine. Easy to prepare, and costs about 25¢.

If you have a severe cough or chest cold accompanied with soreness, throat tickle, hoarseness, or difficult breathing, or if your child wakes up during the night with croup and you want quick help, try this reliable old home-made cough remedy. Any druggist can supply you with 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. This recipe makes a pint of really remarkable cough remedy. It tastes good, and in spite of its low cost, it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

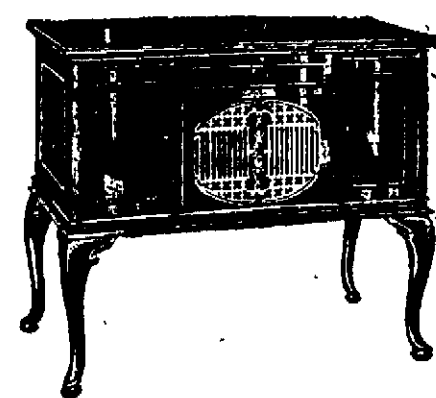

You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. It loosens and raises the phlegm, stops throat tickle and soothes and heals the irritated membranes that line the throat and bronchial tubes with such promptness, ease and certainty that it is really astonishing.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is probably the best known means of overcoming severe coughs, throat and chest colds. There are many worthless imitations of this mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

EVENING SHOPPING BULLETIN

Published By Appleton Merchants for the Evening Shoppers of Christmas Week

VOL. 1

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 22, 1921

NO. 4

BRISK HOLIDAY BUSINESS

Appleton merchants are well satisfied with their holiday business this year, a survey of the retail establishments has shown. Business has picked up wonderfully in the last week and as a whole sales will compare very favorably with other years. Stocks of merchandise have been exceptionally large this year and merchants have displayed a holiday spirit that is entirely in keeping with the occasion.

Stores have been well filled with shoppers each evening this week. The policy of offering special bargains each day as advertised in the Evening Shopping Bulletin has stimulated buying because consumers know that merchants are offering real values.

Toy departments in many of the stores are being rapidly depleted in dictating that there will be very few youngsters who will not be well stocked with playthings on Christmas morning. Purchase of toys was started early with the result that shoppers will have to hurry if they wish any kind of a selection.

The recent cold snap has stimulated sales of heavy clothing, it was said. The mild weather up until this week reacted against merchants but the rush the last few days has evened up matters and a good season now is assured.

All in all merchants are expressing satisfaction with the way business is moving. They are convinced that before this talk of hard times is mostly talk and that a majority of the people have money and are willing to take advantage of the bargains.

Mail Order Business Large

Local firms have done a large amount of mail order business during the past weeks—especially in the last few days when many country roads made travelling in town difficult. Stores reported orders from quite a distance and it is quite evident that Appleton has received quite a reputation as an ideal shopping center.

Those out-of-town customers who could reach bus, train and interurban lines have poured into the city each day to do their own shopping. The business from these quarters has far exceeded expectations this year.

ELECTRIC HOUSEHOLD GIFTS

From the sales reported by electric firms many a housewife will find a vacuum cleaner or a washing machine in her stocking Christmas morning. These labor savers have become immensely popular this year for gifts.

TOMORROW IS FINAL NIGHT

The last hour of Christmas Evening Shopping strikes tomorrow night at nine-thirty. No stores will be open Saturday night after six o'clock. The specials below gave some idea of the additional effort that merchants are making for this final evening. A trip downtown will be amply repaid by the extra offerings available at that time. The individual space of each merchant is so small on the page below that but few specials can be mentioned, but for every one here there will be dozens on the counters. Surprising values in remainders of various holiday showings can be picked up at bargain prices tomorrow and Saturday.

The stocks for tonight's selling offer the same attractions, and are expected to meet with a hearty welcome.

Cold Wave Speeds Up Holiday Gift Buying

The most severe cold of the season has done much to speed up holiday buying. Shoppers endeavor to make one trip down town to do the work of several expeditions.

Past buying has been the order of the day, and fewer loiterers have been seen in the stores this week than in any Christmas season past.

Brisk buying of last night was done in spite of the cold, and many customers expressed satisfaction with the facilities offered by the less crowded stores.

Christmas Dinner Bought

Grocers are experiencing the heavy demand occasioned by the vast preparations under way in local kitchens. Christmas dinners are practically prepared, if the food stuffs already delivered can be accepted as any indication.

Christmas cooking has returned to the old prewar basis and housewives are magically producing the toothsome dainties that are associated with the holidays.

There will be turkeys and game as well as roasts in Appleton ovens Sunday morning and the groaning boards of greeting cards will be reproduced in real life.

OLD-TIME CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

Not for years has a Christmas season been so filled with the old-time Christmas spirit as is this. Appleton will have a "white" Christmas, and with the snow as a background there will be celebrated the sort of a festival that Dickens has bequeathed to us.

Sunday and Monday will be full of activity for young and old. The Community Tree is a true expression of the spirit of Old Christmas. Young people will take advantage of snowy hills and the rapidly thickening fog to indulge in outdoor sports, while there will be jollity for all.

The entire buying season has been filled with preparations for just such an old-time Christmas. Stores that sell holiday decorations have remarked on the vast amount of trimmings bought for homes. There are more Christmas trees in Appleton this year than last—and more ornaments have been purchased to trim them.

Young eyes will bulge on Christmas morning to see the things that Saint Nicholas has accomplished during the night. For young and old this will be a Christmas that will never be forgotten.

Felt Slippers Are Sure of a Warm Welcome on Christmas Morning

How do you suppose the youngsters would like to find the perky ears of Peter Rabbit Slippers or the cuffs of Puss-in-Boots Slippers on which funny animals are printed in colors peeking out of their stockings on Christmas morning? You don't have to suppose; you know they would have them on and be romping about before you could say "Ho Ho Ho." Mother will like Felt Slippers, too, just as much as the children, nice warm ones to slip on first thing in the morning. They come in several attractive styles, ribbon trimmed and with pom-poms.

LOCOMOTIVE HITS
NEW HIGH RECORD

(By Wall Street Journal)
New York—With the exception of American Locomotive, Corn Products and a few specialties, the market did little in the third hour. American Locomotive made a new high for the year at 1.02½. As far as Corn Products is concerned, the best opinion seems to be that the big rise of the month has been largely at the expense of short interests. Uptown traders have been bearish on Corn Products ever since it broke through 84. Texas Gulf Sulphur made a new record high above 38.
Shipping stocks in the main were firm. Marine preferred held up well around 63. Marine will not only earn its preferred dividend this year but show a substantial surplus.
Burns Bros. made a new high for the year at 1.32½ on the Low Jones story showing the junction proceedings which have held up the merger with the Farrell company had been settled privately.

"King" worship, what? "Has-beens" they are—Ex-Emperor Carl, last of the Hapsburgs, and his wife, Zita, going into exile on the island of Madeira—and the natives crowd about them doffing their hats and bending the knee as though they hailed some conquering hero. This is the first—and exclusive—picture of the exiles' arrival.

Democrat until a few years ago, although his party affiliations were usually forgotten when Harding was involved. He was reading clerk at the Democratic convention in 1912. Christian has two grown sons. The older, named Warren after the President, is a West Point graduate, and a first lieutenant in the regular army.

PAIR NEAR DEATH IN BAY WHEN ICE BREAKS

Marquette—Clifford Hanson and Nels Jensen had a narrow escape from drowning while out setting nets in the bay. The ice began cracking when they were out some distance and finally gave way. The men were thrown into water over their heads. When they came to the surface they broke ice for quite a distance before getting to some that was strong enough to support them. Had they not been good swimmers they could not have gotten back alive.

CLAIMS SHARE OF SINGER'S ESTATE

Massachusetts Woman Says
She is Daughter of Famous
"Swedish Nightingale"

Lynn, Mass.—A great lady of the stage, a rich count, a $15,000,000 fortune, a lost child, kidnapping, forgery, intrigue!
Could you combine those elements into a real romance if you gave your imagination full play?
All of them will be present in the story that will be revealed in court when Mrs. George F. Nilsson starts suit for her share of the $15,000,000 estate of Countess Christine Nilsson, famed a generation ago as the "Swedish nightingale."

Mrs. Murray asserts she is the countess' daughter. She has sent lawyers to Sweden with proof of her claims. A hot legal battle will start soon.
This is the story Mrs. Murray will tell:
"I was born in Worcester, Mass., Dec. 19, 1881, when Countess Nilsson was filling a concert engagement there. I believe I am the daughter of Countess Nilsson's second husband, Count Casa di Miranda.
"Countess Nilsson kept my birth a secret and gave me out for adoption.

BOSTON IS BEST FIELDING SQUAD

Chicago—Boston, for the sixth consecutive season, led the American league in fielding, figures released Thursday show.

The Red Sox fielded for an average of .975, followed by Chicago .969; and the champion Yankees .965.
Only 157 errors were chalked up against the Boston players, as compared with Philadelphia, in last place, with 274 miscues.
The Athletics, however, topped in the greatest number of putouts, 4200.

Chicago in assists, 2,124; and the White Sox also in the most double plays, 155.
With four triple plays in one season each by Chicago, Washington, St. Louis and Detroit, a new world mark was set.
Individual fielding honors went to Stuffy McInnis of Boston, who bled only once in 152 games for an average of .999. He plays first base.

successor to Dr. John Alexander Dowie, the first overseer of Zion City, has made his bailiwick the bluest of blue law towns.

But few have heard of Voliva's stupendous success as a financier, and captain of industry.

Voliva rescued Zion City from the receiver's auction block after the death of Dowie. With his total assets $3 cents he negotiated a $1,000,000 loan.

VOLIVA OWNS CITY
Today Voliva owns Zion City. Everything is in his name, including its 23 industries, which last year did a total business of $3,156,051.24.

Today Voliva's properties are almost free from debt, the city treasury is bulging with revenues, its industries are running 24 hours a day and it goes without saying, there is no unemployment.

Voliva's 5000 followers give him all the credit. He is 51, was born on a farm in Newton, Ind., is the community's religious as well as worldly leader, and yet takes no personal pride in his accomplishments. He has fixed his own salary at $250 a month and refuses to consider more.

"Primarily there is but one road to success, and that road lies along the highway of eternal and constant ambition," Voliva explains.

"But every man, to start with, providing he has an abiding faith in God, his fellowman and religion, has a book value of $250,000.

"At least I would value a man's religion on a business basis as being worth $250,000.

"For in religion reposes character, perseverance and help against adversities.

SHELTER AND STRENGTH
"It offers shelter in time of need and strength when disaster threatens.

"To capitalize one's faith, a combination of horse sense and the sagacity for making money are necessary.

"Not every man of religion can become wealthy. But religion as an adjunct to money making ability will multiply the chances for making money.

"I raised $3 cents to the dignity of $6,000,000 because I:

"Tried to keep faith with God and man.

"Never did myself what I could train others to do for me.

"Surrounded myself with the right kind of minds and made them work.

"Endeavored to visualize opportunity always.

"Took chances when I believed myself right.

"Sought always to keep alive and active.

"Tempered all business deals with religion."

Build Your Own Garage

Why not build a fire and weather-proof garage for your automobile? You can do it yourself, with outside help of any sort. Concrete is the material you require, and the job is not a difficult one if simple instructions are followed.

You can have, entirely free, a booklet explaining exactly how to mix concrete, what proportions of cement, sand, gravel, stone, and water to use, and how to build the forms and pour the concrete. It tells how to finish the surface and protect it in the early stage, when it is hardening.

In this simple way you can make a place to keep your car which will be in keeping with the dignity and convenience of your house. The booklet explains a hundred and one other uses for concrete around the home or the farm. To obtain the booklet simply fill out the coupon below, enclosing two cents in stamps for return postage. So there will be no mistake nor delay print name and address or be sure to write plainly.

LETTERS TO LOVERS

A Neurotic Wife

By Winona Wilcox

Sombody says that "the nervous invalid is not short lived, but his family may be."

In the annals of most neighborhoods, there is a chapter about the woman who suffered from "nerves" all her life. I recall one who for years disguised "laziness" as "nerves." At 35 she is pretty, dainty and serene when she isn't nagging somebody. And she still dictates to her youngest daughter, who, at 37, has neither a past nor a future, except as a slave to "dear mother's nerves."

If the new psychology is ever to be of any value to women, it will be in the way of exterminating these victims of nerve sprees.

If they can't be taught that they are fakers, who like to deceive themselves, then they might be so "neglected" by their subservient relatives that they would make a little personal effort to save their own precious lives.

Comes this story of heroic treatment, as devised by a young husband: "My wife had her own checking account from the first week of our marriage. She went through a private school and has all the accomplishments of a child of fortune, although her family never had money until her father made it. She had no background of restraint.

"The men of my family have striven about financial integrity. Our credit in the community is the basis of our family pride. Imagine my shock when I found that my bride was destroying my credit!

"Like thousands of girls today, she set out to spend, as a bride, the total earnings of her husband—without any training in the art of spending!

She overdraw her account and then she concealed her bills from me. The milk bills amounted to $50 before I discovered them! I never have been able to find out how she expected to get away with the situation.

"I tried to teach her a little business sense but finally gave up. I closed her checking account, and had all the bills sent to me. I gave her a cash allowance for spending each month.

"Did I acquire any peace of mind that way?

"I did not. My wife immediately developed symptoms of appendicitis. She neglected our baby. The sweet little thing looked like a dirty mop when I got home at night. My wife was quite helpless in bed. I sent for her mother and the doctor. He watched her a week, then recommended exercise and a perfectly housework!

"But, he can't beat her. Now she has a weak heart! And so—what's the use! I might stand for the bluff had I not seen my own cousin pull this neurotic stuff and deceive her husband by it for months.

"Mrs. Wilcox, you've said some splendid things in these letters to lovers, but sometimes I think you're easy on the women.

"I honestly loved this little girl when I married her three years ago but if I don't know three years hence who can blame me?"

Thus does the sophistication of the modern man keep pace with that of the modern girl. But will she—can we—learn anything from it?

Adventures of the Twins

Olive Roberts Barton

"Oh! Lolly Lobster's eyes, always poppy, nearly popped out of his head. 'Here comes one of the cotton-spinners I told you about! I'll bet he's the one who spun all that white thread around you!'

The twins looked where Lolly was pointing with one of his long feelers, and beheld another green creature, long and round and warty, like a cucumber out of Farmer Smith's sassa-patch garden, creeping slowly toward them.

"Oh, quick!" cried Lolly. "Take off your hands at once, children. And then he did a most amazing thing. Lolly did. He shook off both of his large claws, one after the other, and laid them down on the white sand.

"Wh—what's that for?" gasped Nick. Lolly looked sadly at his claws and shook his head. "Now I've got to disappear again for a few weeks until new ones grow," he said mournfully. "But one has to do something when an enemy comes."

But Mr. Cucumber Cotton Spinner scarcely gave him a glance. He came close to the twins. "You don't need to take your hands off," he told them in an upish tone. "I'm not afraid of you a bit, now that I have you all tied up with my strong line. Lolly Lobster is a little weak in his head or he wouldn't take the trouble he does. He takes off his claws every time he thinks he's in danger, for all the good it does him."

"Fortunately, I'm not troubled with claws."

"Or a head, either. I should say," Nancy couldn't help observing.

"Tut," said Mr. Cotton-Spinner sharply. "That's no way to talk to your jaller. Besides, my stomach makes up for my brains. I've just eaten the pink pearl!"

MAKING LIVING IS HARD JOB IN TINY STATES OF BAL TIC

Industrial and Commercial Activities in "Buffer States" are in Bad Shape

Riga.—The new and tiny Baltic states created by the Allies as buffers against Bolshevism, are actually having about all they can do to keep going as nations.

The miniature countries, each weighed down with expensive governmental machinery and surrounded by high customs walls, have not been able thus far to develop the administrative capacity to keep national, commercial and economic life functioning properly. Despite heavy taxes, their governments cannot make their budgets balance without working the paper printing press overtime and national industries and commercial activities, disrupted by the war, are still in bad shape.

Few of their own citizens expect them to survive as independent states after normal conditions are restored in Eastern Europe. Most predict reattachment to Russia, with a large degree of local autonomy. Of the new republics, Lithuania is working the least. Latvia and Estonia, however, are running rapidly behind.

These general facts stand out prominently after talks and interviews with a large number of Latvians of all classes. The accuracy of the statement in regard to the industrial life is attested by the idle smokestacks up and down the Dvina and the lack of shipping in the harbor.

In connection with the last, of course, it must be admitted that the cutting off of the old Russian trade was one of the important contributing causes. But the partition of the Baltic region into disconnected economic units, has made the restoration of industry threefold difficult.

Nevertheless, very few Latvians favor joining with Bolshevism. Most of them prefer to plod along by themselves, even if poorly, "until a new regime comes in Russia," as they put it.

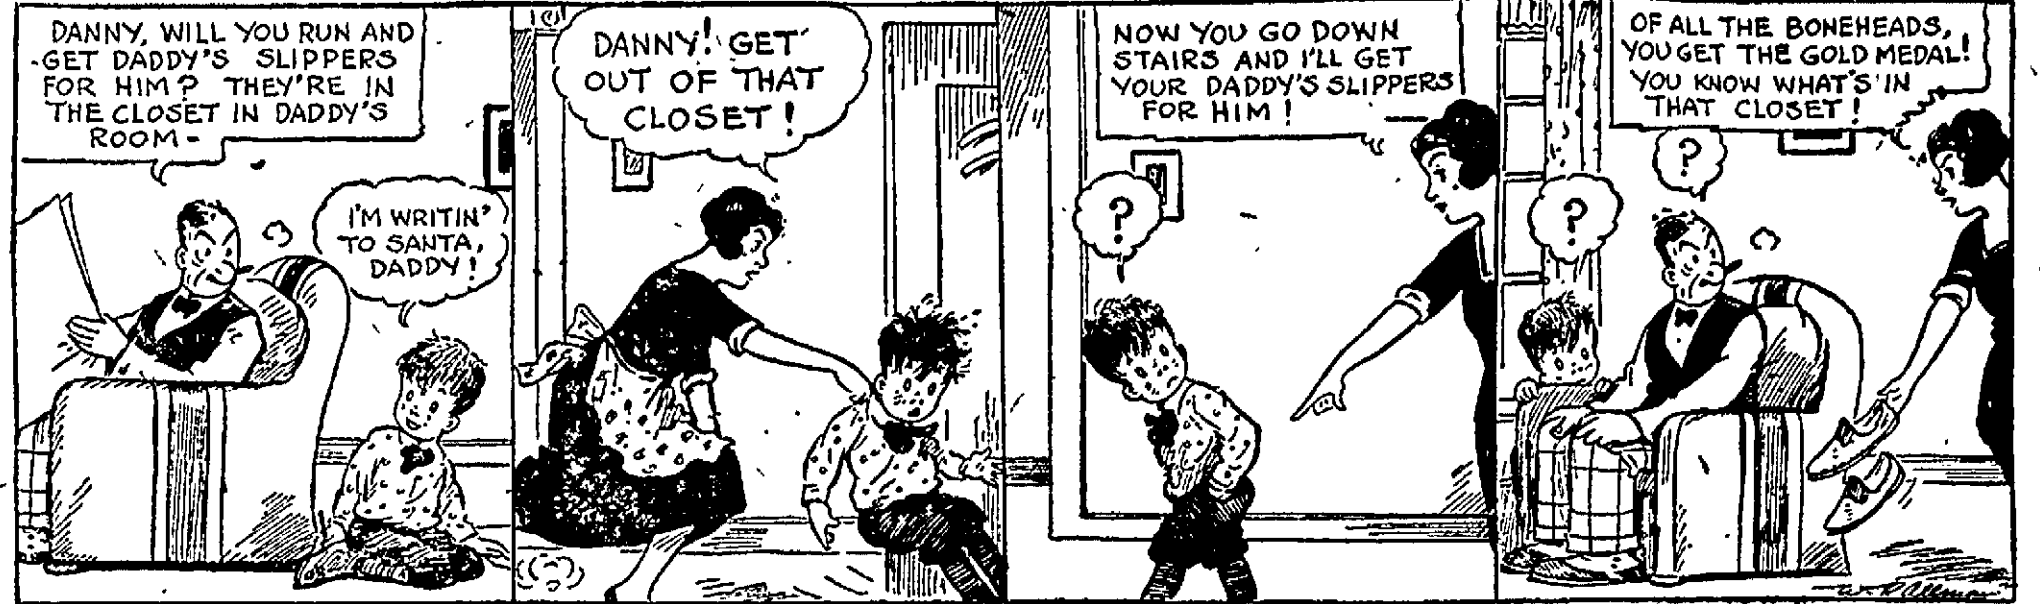

Here is the price Latvia is paying for independence: A 1000 per cent increase in taxes over 1914, to support a costly government, top heavy with personnel. There is a popular saying that every fourth Lett in Riga receives a pay check from the government.

Loss of international credit. Latvian merchants have great difficulty in obtaining credit abroad, and the government is thinking of sending the finance minister on a tour of Europe soon to try to raise a little loan. Exhausting slowest of recovery of business and industry owing to disorganized communication among the Baltic countries, customs restrictions, etc.

How To Make Canapes

A very attractive way to begin a dinner is with a "canape." This is something like the French hors d'oeuvre in that a canape should always be highly seasoned and served to whet the appetite.

The literal meaning of "canape" is soft. The culinary meaning is a small piece of toast upon which savories are served.

A canape is served on a small dolly on a small plate and eaten with a fork.

CAVIAR AND TOMATO CANAPE
Imported caviar should be used if possible but domestic is quite good.

Toast rounds of bread not more than two inches in diameter. Put a thin slice of tomato on each circle. Spread with caviar, sprinkle with few drops of lemon juice and rice hard boiled egg on top. Put a tiny leaf of parsley on top of the egg.

SARDINE CANAPE
Cut bread in strips four inches long and one and one-fourth inches wide and about three-eighths of an inch thick. Spread lightly with butter and brown quickly in a hot oven. Make a paste, using three tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 1-2 teaspoon salt and a few grains mustard.

Spread toast with this paste. Put half a perfect sardine freed from skin and bones on each bit of toast, mask with mayonnaise and sprinkle with chopped olives and capers. Let chill before serving.

PINEAPPLE AND HAM CANAPE
Cut rounds of bread two inches in diameter and three-fourths of an inch thick. Fry to a golden brown in deep hot fat. While hot fit a thin slice of canned pineapple on each crustade, cover with finely minced, broiled or fried ham, cover with grated cheese and put under the flame to melt cheese. Serve at once.

WALNUT CANAPES
Toast squares of brown bread. Spread lightly with butter. Mash a cream cheese and work smooth with a little cream. Season highly with salt and paprika.

Spread this on the rounds of toast. On each corner and in the center put half a walnut meat. Put thin slices of olives stuffed with pimento between the nuts, sprinkle lightly with minced parsley and serve.

CHAB MEAT CANAPE
Toast triangles of bread and spread with butter. Crab meat, very fine and add half as much minced celery as there is crab meat. Season with salt and pepper and lemon juice and add enough cream cheese to hold the mixture together. Heap on toast and garnish with rings of olives and shreds of pimento.

EVIL AMUSEMENTS
There have been too diverse, too many questionable amusements, such great physical activity that it has ended in nerve strain.

"One need only compare the average girl of today with her grandmother, or even with her mother, physically, to realize my meaning.

"Ask any obstetrician how a child of the average girl of today compares in size and strength with the child borne by her grandmother, and you will have an answer that spells rapid deterioration.

"Ask how the delivery of a young wife of today compares with that of her grandmother, and you will have a subject worthy of deep thought.

ABNORMAL SUFFERING
"It is a cruel and wicked thing that the young women of today should suffer the extreme tortures that they are being forced to endure in the performance of a function that was intended to be natural and not unduly disagreeable.

"Ask why a heavy per cent of the young mothers of today cannot nurse their babies, and why another appalling condition exists, and you will have information that should arouse you to action.

"It is very well to fight for the restoration of normal prices and wages. It is infinitely more necessary that a fight should be begun for a return to normal home life."

BETTER GIRLS ARE NEED OF AMERICA

Gene Stratton Porter Pleads Return to Normal Home Life to Save Nation

Special to the Post-Crescent

New York.—"What we need most as a nation is perfect physical specimens of girlhood, full breasted, red lipped, rosy checked by the grace of God.

"On every hand one sees today undeveloped, painted, anemic, oversophisticated girls, half clothed, dancing rhapsodies, and carrying clear-cut cases, and even flasks."

Who says so? Gene Stratton-Porter, the famous author of "Freckles" and "The Girl of the Limberlost." In the January McCall's she issues a warning to the mothers of America against jazz and laxity of discipline.

Everywhere Mrs. Stratton-Porter sees daughters imperiled and the home disintegrating. She declares:

"There must be a right-about face for the young girls of today, or we are heading straight for disaster.

APPLETON LOSES TO NEENAH—SEEKS REVENGE TONIGHT

DAME'S TEAM IS UNABLE TO HOLD TWIN CITY QUINT

Wisconsin Rapids Star Will Take Floor Against Boosters Tonight

George Dame's professional basketball team of the Central Wisconsin Basketball league went down to defeat Wednesday evening in a hard fought game, 25 to 21 in a hard fought game.

Appleton's passing game was greatly improved since the early part of the season and the team work was better but the men did not seem to have their shooting eye with them. Neither team scored during the first five minutes of play. Spandler of Neenah started the scoring with a short shot, closely followed by a long shot from the middle of the floor by his teammate, Wall. Normington and Stark followed with a marked each. The remainder of the period saw the score see-sawing back and forth. The half ended 12 to 15 with the local team on the short end.

Stark was the leading scorer for Dame's men netting eight baskets, four of them long shots.

MANY FREAK SHOTS
Spandler and Wall of the Neenah aggregation started the crowd with their freakish shots from every angle of the floor. Appleton was slow in getting set in the second half and could not break up the 5 man defense of the visitors.

Madsen, an 18-year old star was sent in the second period for the Boosters to relieve Spandler. He netted five remarkable baskets and will bear watching Thursday evening in Armory G.

Dame has secured the services of O. Ritchey of Wisconsin Rapids to start Thursday evening when Appleton will seek revenge for the beating Wednesday night. Ritchey, formerly of the New London Edison and Wisconsin Rapids fives, has been the regular running mate of Stark.

Here are the lineups:
Appleton—Stark and Basing, forwards; Normington, center; Taylor and Kubitz, guards.
Neenah—Spandler, Spandler and Gerhart, forwards; Wall, center; A. Wuehl and Fay, guards.
Substitutions—Waterpool for Basing, Madsen for Spandler.

Sport Views And News

The Green Bay Boxing club is going to give theistic fans of this part of the state a nice little Christmas present in their popular prize show which will be staged in Green Bay, Dec. 30. The signing of Frankie Henke and Steve Ridgely in the main go insures a bang up card. This will be Ridgely's first real chance at big game and the Bay fighter can be counted on to give a good account of himself.

The proposed bout between Jack Dempsey and Harry Wills is kicking up a bit of discussion in fight circles. It is hard to figure where the big black has a ghost of a show with the champion but evidently some of the promoters seem to think that it would be a good scrap. One Denver fight magazine has made an offer of $100,000. It looks like another check for pretty soft money for the title holder. Jack Kearns probably is grasping the skirts to the dough bag again.

Pinky Mitchell is going to look horns with Benny Leonard in a Milwaukee ring, Jan. 2. Naturally, the Cream City is all excited over the fracas and some of the rabid fans think that the Prize of the Thirteenth ward is going to burst the championship bubble. May be so, but we have our doubts. Leonard is a cunning old fox when it comes to the art of exchanging fistfuls and he is very apt to make Mitchell wish he had stayed in his own class before the argument is history.

Tommy Gibbons' streak of knock outs was halted by Bart Madden of New York city who stuck the full ten rounds with the wild Irishman from St. Paul in their encounter at Grand Rapids, Mich. Gibbons won the fight with plenty to spare but the Gothamite withstood all efforts to put over the sleeping producing punch. This is the first time in a year that Gibbons has failed to K. O. his opponent.

Walter Camp's All American selections will be favorably received in the middle west although some of the football devotees can't figure out why McGuire is entitled to a berth at tackle over Slater, the Giant team star. May be the dear old football draws the color line. Who knows? Camp certainly gave the big three in the east a cold shoulder.

MEET THURSDAY TO PICK BOYS BASKETBALL TEAMS

The classification committee of the Appleton Boys Athletic federation will meet at 8 o'clock Thursday evening at the Y. M. C. A. to organize the basketball teams that are entered in the federation leagues, as to weight, weight and age. Teams also will be classified in different leagues and the division schedule will be completed. Members of the committee are Howard P. Buck, scout executive, A. G. Osterhaus, principal of the First ward school; R. H. Starkey, physical director, and A. J. Jensen, assistant physical director of the Y. M. C. A.

Joe Bush Is Real Comeback

Brain is as great if not greater than brawn when it comes to pitching.

For proof of that theory the career of Pitcher Joe Bush, late of the Boston Red Sox, but now of the New York Yankees, is submitted for your consideration. Bush was traded to the Yankees by Harry Frazee, the Boston magnate, this week.

Bush was the sensational comeback of the 1921 season in the American League, after a lot of experts said he was through.

Joe Bush fooled the experts because he called on his brain power, after his physical resources began to fail him.

Because of his terrific speed, Bush early in his career was called "Bullet Joe." No nickname could have possibly been more appropriate.

Bush almost from his debut was a success. His fast ball was his main asset. Instead of conserving his strength, Joe always went at top speed regardless of the score.

Almost out of a clear sky Joe discovered that the old fast ball was losing some of its "zip." Batters who once were easy for him began to take liberties with his stuff.

That caused Bush to decide that a pitcher needed more than speed if he was to continue for any great length of time as a big leaguer. At just about the time Joe reached such a decision he began to have trouble with his arm.

HAD A VERY BAD ARM
The season of 1919 found Bush almost useless. He was unable to throw without suffering great pain. The old speed was no longer there. He consulted any number of specialists, but received little or no benefit. Complete rest was usually prescribed as a possible cure.

During the season of 1919 Bush worked only nine innings scattered through three games. However, he was in uniform most every day, keeping himself as physically fit as possible.

Pleanty of time to think and reflect caused Bush to do some experimenting. Since he suffered great pain, every time he tried to throw a fast ball, Bush practiced throughout the year throwing a slow ball with a fast ball motion. It was possible for him to so throw without any inconvenience.

DEVELOPED NEW DELIVERY
Bush carried the experiment even further, he developed what he calls a "fork ball." He has so named it because of the peculiar way he holds the ball between his fingers before delivering it to the batter.

The season of rest seemed to restore strength to Bush's arm. He worked more than 30 games in 1920, but was unable to get better than an even break, winning and losing 15.

Bush couldn't get the older stuff on the fast one. Because of the difficulty in controlling the fork ball, Bush didn't use it during 1920, but constantly worked with it to develop control.

After working for nearly three years mastering the new delivery, Bush started to use it in the early summer of 1921. Batters soon objected, saying Bush was using a spitball, which he had no right to do. The umpires, however, knew such was not the case. The "fork ball" broke very much like a spitball.

HAD BIG SEASON IN 1921
The season of 1921 was a big year for Bush, after a lot of people thought he was done as a big leaguer. His success was centered around the "fork ball." This ball, coupled with his curve and fast one, with a change of pace thrown in, made Bush over into a new style pitcher.

Instead of depending on terrific speed, Bush stood the batters on their heads by mixing them up. Bush is again a great pitcher because he refused to give up when gloom was thickest.

When nature weakened on him, he called on his brain for assistance. The "fork ball," a most deceptive delivery, has given Bush a threat, which he constantly holds over the batter. The "fork ball" was the result of three years of effort. It was worth while.

Mathewson Was Greatest Of All Great Pitchers

By Billy Evans
Christy Mathewson was one of the greatest pitchers the game has ever produced.

Not only was Mathewson endowed with great natural ability, but he was likewise blessed with equal brain power.

No pitcher in the history of the game pitched more intelligently than Mathewson. He didn't depend entirely on his arm.

Players who have battled against him will tell you with the bases empty he was easy to hit.

Mathewson was almost invincible. He possessed uncanny control. He was decidedly off form when he gave more than one base on balls in a game.

When it is considered that the ordinary pitcher usually gives three or four, some idea can be gained of Mathewson's remarkable control.

During his entire career as a National League pitcher, in which he worked 529 games, he averaged only a trifle more than a base on balls per game.

Mathewson made a careful study of the opposing batters. If a player had a weakness at the plate he soon discovered it.

From that time on said player was a marked man. Mathewson, because of his great control, was able to constantly place the ball just where the batter didn't like it.

Mathewson believed in conserving his strength. He never exerted himself until the occasion demanded it. When the pinch arrived he always had something in reserve.

Aside from great natural ability, and a high degree of intelligence, Mathewson had plenty of nerve. No situation was too trying for him. Manager McGraw always pinned his hopes on Mathewson when the big moment arrived.

On and off the field Mathewson was always a gentleman. His career as a ball player and a man could be used as a model for all of young America anxious to win fame in the big leagues.

Seldom did Mathewson even question the judgment of the umpire. He believed in the theory of the pitcher doing the pitching, and permitting the umpire to do the umpiring.

He was never put out of a ball game during his career as an active player. Once he was chased to the clubhouse from the bench.

The umpire in charge of that particular game decided to send all the New York players except those actually in the game off the bench. "Matty" was among the bench warmers.

Mathewson leaves a record in baseball that will always be pointed to with pride. Baseball would indeed be fortunate if there were more players of the Mathewson type in the ranks. His passing from the game was a distinct loss.

ST. PAUL TEAM LOSES TO NEW LONDON SQUAD

St. Paul Lutheran basketball team was defeated Wednesday evening in Bushey Business college gymnasium by the New London Trinity Lutheran church team, 25 to 14. A large crowd saw the game. The five man defense of the New London team was impressive and it accounted for the defeat of the local team. The score at the end of the first half was 12 to 6 in favor of the visitors. A return game will be played at New London in about three weeks.

The St. Paul team will play North western college of Watertown Friday evening on the Y. M. C. A. floor.

INDEPENDENTS ARE TO PLAY FOND DU LAC FIVE

The Appleton Independents basketball team, under the leadership of Richard Holte, is scheduled to play the Wisconsin Arrows at North Fond du Lac Friday evening, according to word from Fond du Lac. The Arrows recently defeated Fred Bushy's U. S. Tractors. The team is being trained for the game with Appleton. It was reported.

Only two more days to join the Good Fellows club—Don't deny yourself this pleasure.

COUNTY TOURNEY WOULD BE FINE

Hortonville, Black Creek and Seymour Teams Should Get Together

The Black Creek city basketball team has booked a game with the strong Stroebel Hardware Co. team if Neenah for Monday night, Jan. 2, at Black Creek. The Stroebel team, one of the strongest in the Twin Cities, will play at Slinger Dec. 22.

Black Creek has made a fine record so far this year, winning a majority of its games. It has played some of the strongest teams in this section.

Strong teams also are representing Hortonville and Seymour this year. It would be a good plan if those three teams could get together in a series of say two or three games with each other to determine the championship of the county. The games would be worth attending and surely would stir up a lot of interest.

All in all, this is one of the best basketball seasons in years. There is more interest in the great indoor sport this year over the stage than has been noticeable for many years. Amateur teams are springing up by the dozen and a lot of fine players are being developed.

HERMAN TRYING TO COME BACK AGAIN

New York-Pete Herman, the squatty little New Orleans Italian, is the elevator boy of the ring.

His specialty is making trips up and down from the top floor of the Bantam building.

Right now Pete is after making a trip down from the dome. Tonight he makes another effort to go up over the body of Midget Smith, the slashing little ex-panther.

Herman has been the bantam champion twice and if he gets by Smith and succeeds in coaxing Johnny Buff back into the ring his chances are excellent to make a new record of having won the title three times.

Others have come back to win a title after once losing it but never has the stunt been done twice. Possession of the title seems to exert a spell over the little Italian. He never fights as a champion like he does as a contender.

SUGGESTS CHANGE IN RULE GOVERNING CAGE GAME FOULS

New Method of Tossing "Free Throws" Will Add to Game, Expert Says

Basketball has plenty of action, just so long as the referee keeps the whistle out of his mouth.

It seems agreed that the foul rule is one feature of the game that can stand some wise legislation.

Ward Brennan, one of the leading basketball officials, comes to the bat with some interesting suggestions.

Brennan has been connected with basketball for 18 years as a player, coach and official. Aside from his duties as referee in the Eastern League, the big league of basketball, he is coaching Pratt Institute as a side issue.

"Too much foul throwing by an expert in that one particular play kills off the action. Brennan is very definite on the point. He has a very unique idea to minimize fouling."

His suggestion is that when a player commits a foul that player shall make a try for a basket from the foul line. If he makes it, his team shall be eliminated from any penalty. If he misses, his opponent shall be credited with two points if the foul is personal and one point if technical.

SIX VALUABLE SUGGESTIONS
Here are six suggestions from Brennan worthy of consideration.

That the center circle radius be made 3 feet, instead of the present one which is 2 feet.

Time Outs: Each team shall be allowed four time-outs of one minute durations. Two times out in each half.

Free Throw: When a foul is called the referee shall immediately secure the ball, and instruct the player who made the foul to throw for goal from the foul line. If goal is made, the penalty is eliminated. If missed, the opponent shall be given 2 points if the foul committed was personal, and 1 point if technical.

Field Goals: A goal from the field shall count 3 points.

Time Out: Time to be taken out when a foul is called, and play to begin again when ball leaves player's hands while on the foul line.

Center Ball: On the toss-up at center, the men jumping should not be allowed to play the ball until it is again played by another player, or has hit the floor.

TROOP 4 BASKETEERS WIN FROM TROOP 8

Boy Scout Troop 4 defeated the basketball team representing Troop 8 in the high school gymnasium Tuesday evening, 25 to 8. Troop 8 played a fine passing game but couldn't shoot baskets.

The teams follow:
Troop 4—Green and Rosenwald, forwards; Ayleworth, center; Gelbke and Belzer, guards.

Troop 8—R. Packard and Harri-man, guards; C. Packard, center; Winsey and Frazier, forwards.

PLAN "BOOSTER" GAME WITH TWO RIVERS JAN. 6

Thompson Wires That He Will Be Able to Play Four Games Here

Preparations have been started for a booster basketball game to be played here Jan. 6 with Two Rivers as the opponent. Manager George Dame of the Central Wisconsin Basketball league team has taken steps to strengthen his squad for that game.

Reports from Fond du Lac and Green Bay indicate that interest in professional basketball is increasing and that crowds are becoming larger. The holiday season has kept down the attendance somewhat but it is expected to pick up after Christmas.

Dame's team will play a strong Manitowish team at Manitowish Friday evening. Manitowish players saw Appleton defeat Two Rivers and they are looking for a hard battle.

The Interlake Pulp and Paper Co. basketball team will play an aggregation of Kaukauna stars traveling under the colors of the Mulford Clothing Co. in Armory G Friday evening. The Mulford have picked up a number of former stars home for the Christmas holidays to strengthen their squad.

A preliminary game will be played by a girls' team from the Thimnany Pulp and Paper Co. Kaukauna, and Appleton Yvonne club girls team. The first game is to start at 7:15.

The Interlakes probably will be able to send their full strength against the Kaukauna aggregation. Their next game will be with the Wisconsin Arrows in Fond du Lac Wednesday evening, Dec. 28.

Martinson Unable To Come Back After Hill Wins With Hammerlock

Appleton Wrestler Wins Match After Losing First Fall to Chicagoan in Oshkosh—Martinson is Injured.

George Hill, Appleton's wrestling champ, decisively defeated Paul Martinson, the so-called Durable Dane, in their match in Oshkosh Wednesday night when Martinson was unable to return to the mat after Hill had won a fall with a hammerlock. Martinson's shoulder was dislocated, it was said. Hill lost the first fall to the Dane in 31 minutes when he was caught in a toehold. He came back strong, however,

TEACHES WOMEN TO BE GOOD WIVES

Psychoanalyst Believes Home Making Education is Vital Need for Happiness

Special to The Post-Crescent Bridgeport, Conn.—At last! A man who understands women!

This introduces Dr. Simon Louis Katzoff, psychoanalyst, author, lecturer, who says he has solved the problem of matrimonial felicity.

His book, "How to Build a Husband," will be published soon. And he is about to establish a "School for Husbands."

"Education of wives and future wives is a vital need," says Dr. Katzoff. "Too many women take it for granted that the moment they marry a man they have a mortgage on him. They can't hold him."

"They must learn the Divine gift

Notice is hereby given that at a special term of said court to be held at the courthouse in the city of Appleton in said county, on third Tuesday, being the seventeenth day of January, 1922, at the opening of the court on that day, or as soon thereafter as the same can be, will be heard and considered the petition of Hattie Engler for proof and probate of the alleged will

Your Name Should Be In This List Of Good Fellows

The number of Good Fellows in Appleton has increased appreciably since this time Wednesday afternoon but there still are a lot of men and women in Appleton who should have their names on this list of the best people in town. You earn the title of Good Fellow by joining the Good Fellows club which was organized to provide food and clothing for poor families of Appleton. Being a Good Fellow to the poor is much more of a distinction than being a good fellow because you spend your money freely among your friends who don't need your help.

Lets get busy now with that check book and make Christmas happier for yourself and for someone else. Send your contribution to the Good Fellows club editor of the Post-Crescent and see how good you feel.

Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks.

SELECT DATES FOR BIG CATTLE SALES

Directors of Holstein Association Consider Plans for Field Day

Tentative plans for a field day and circuit of sales was presented by P. O. Nyhus, farm agent of the First National bank, and Malachi Ryan at a meeting of directors of Outagamie County Holstein Breeders association at Hotel Northern Wednesday.

The dates selected by Nyhus and Ryan were informed by the directors. The field day will be held on the farm of John Erickson in Waupaca, May 16. The Waupaca sale will be held on the day following, and that of Outagamie in Appleton on May 18 and the Winnebago sale at Oshkosh on May 19.

The committee selected to have charge of Outagamie sale consists of William Winkler, chairman; Edward Samsan of Black Creek; and a representative from Black Creek; who will be selected later.

KIMBERLY PRIEST TO VISIT EUROPE

The Rev. F. N. Van Nistelrooy, pastor of the Catholic church in Kimberly, is planning to leave the latter part of February for Europe. His trip will take him to Rome where he will visit the Vatican and confer with the Pope. Father Van Nistelrooy expects to make a study of all the countries in Europe and to visit as many as possible during his 4-months tour.

HERE IS ANOTHER WAY TO HELP POSTOFFICE

One way the public can aid the postoffice clerks and officials to speed up the mail service is by bunching large amounts of letters and cards in stead of dropping them loosely into the mail boxes. Postmaster Gustave Keller said Thursday. He said it usually takes longer to straighten out the mail from the boxes than it does to stamp and cancel them afterwards. The machine used for canceling letters and cards stamps 600 per minute but is not run at its greatest speed because of the lack of this cooperation on the part of the postoffice patrons, he said.

ALWAYS ROOM ON TOP FOR WORKER, CARRIERS TOLD

Judge Henry Graass of Green Bay Gives Inspiring Address at Banquet

"Life is a business, and the man who is honest, straightforward and keeps pushing is the one who will get ahead," said Judge Henry Graass of Green Bay, in a talk before about 30 carriers of the Post-Crescent, from Appleton, Kaukauna, Kimberly and Little Chute at their annual banquet at 6:30 Wednesday evening in the Y. M. C. A. The speaker was introduced by Joseph Horner, Jr., circulation manager of the Green Bay Press-Gazette. Mr. Horner gave a short talk in which he explained service to the company. He emphasized salesmanship and loyalty. He told how kindness on the route will help the carrier make friends and make the work easier.

"There is always room at the top for success," said Judge Graass. The crowd remains behind in a bunch and those who push ahead will find room ahead. He compared the life of man with a crowd in a street car. The mass remains in the rear of the car while a few, obeying the commands of the conductor to "move ahead," find empty seats in the front of the car.

That it is absolutely necessary to secure a good foundation for life work while we are young was clearly shown by the speaker. He told of a crack which appeared in the courthouse building in Green Bay and investigation showed that the walls had not been set on solid foundation and after the building was completed the base sagged, leaving the ugly crevice. Just so will a crack appear in our character and make us sag unless a strong foundation of truth and honesty is laid early in our lives, the judge said. The speaker told several stories of persons who had done wrong, thinking they were "getting away" with something but he showed the culprit invariably suffered in the end.

BEG PARDON

The Messrs Bernice Adelt and Winifred Doherty returned Tuesday evening from Chicago to spend the holidays with their parents. They had been attending the Chicago Normal School of Physical Education, not visiting in Chicago as was stated in Wednesday's Post-Crescent.

who said that H. P. Buck, chairman of the community Christmas celebration, is out in the woods after one that had been offered to the committee at a nominal charge.

The services of the city firemen have been offered by Chief George McGillan to put up the tree and to do all the work of putting it in shape for lighting and decorating. It is expected that the program, which will start at 5:30 Saturday afternoon, will be finished by 6:30, allowing plenty time for all people in the city to attend other functions. Community singing and short Christmas talks will be features of the splendid program.

BODY OF VETERAN IS LAID TO REST

Military Honors Are Conferred at Funeral of John W. Boehler

The funeral of John W. Boehler, world war veteran who was killed in action in the Argonne, Oct. 29, 1918, and whose body was returned to Appleton Monday, was held at 10 o'clock Thursday morning from St. Joseph church with burial in the American Legion plot in St. Joseph cemetery. The Oney Johnson post of the American legion was in charge of the services at the grave. The pallbearers were comrades of the decedent in the Rainbow division. Full military honors were paid at the grave.

Fred Grapengieser of Rhinelander was in the city Thursday to attend the funeral of his niece, Mildred Grapengieser which took place at 1:30 Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pride and son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Pride and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Pride of Tomahawk will spend the Christmas weekend with their mother, Mrs. C. B. Pride.

Kidney and Bladder Troubles HAVE TO GO

Clogged up kidney deposits are dissolved and the toxins (poisons) completely driven out. "Your very life," says Dr. Carey, "depends upon the perfect functioning of your kidneys." Don't neglect them. When your back aches, have darting pains, dizziness, headaches, bad stomach and tongue, annoying bladder troubles, cloudy urine, rheumatism, puffy eyes, specks, or any other tendency to Bright's Disease, Diabetes or Gravel, Kidney Trouble in its worst form may be stealing upon you. Never mind the failures of the past, insist upon having, at once, a bottle of guaranteed Dr. Carey's Marsh-Root Prescription No. 777. (Liquid or Tablet form) from Schlicht Bros. Co. or any other reliable druggist, for Kidney and Bladder troubles don't wear away, they will grow upon you slowly, stealthily and with unfailing certainty. Every good druggist has been authorized to refund purchase price on two bottles to all who state they have had no benefit. adv.

Rink Ground Too Soft To Hold Water

If you have been writing to Santa for new skates and you want to use them, you will have to call on Jack Frost for help before Jones park can be flooded. When a section of the park was cleared on Wednesday preparatory to flooding it for the use of ice skaters, it was found that there is not enough frost in the ground to keep the water from seeping through. Just as soon as weather conditions make it possible to prepare the pond for use, the city engineering department will take care of it. The department plans to have the rink ready for Christmas day if possible.
